Emperor Offers Concessions—Italy Insists on Military Control But Refuses to Make Demands Specific.

LAVAL, EDEN AND ALOISI CONFER

Conciliation Commission Spokesman at Paris Declares 'Whole Thing Has Been Dumped in Mussolini's Lap.'

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Emperor Haile Selassie tonight stated Ethiopia was willing to grant security to the Italian colonies on its borders, to give economic facilities and to make economic concessions to Italy, but would not accept military occupation.

These offers were made directly to the diplomats of Great Britain, Italy and France, gathered here for the impending Italo-Ethiopian hostilities.

The Emperor's offers were as follows:

1—An Ethiopian guarantee of the security of the Italian colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea and a similar guarantee for the security of Italians living in Ethiopia.

2—Ethiopia is willing to grant economic facilities for mining, road-building and railroad operation.

3—Ethiopia may even grant more extensive agricultural concessions to Italy.

Conference quarters stated, however, that the Emperor would not permit any military occupation of his nation.

"In Mussolini's Lap." A British spokesman said tonight that Premier Mussolini's unwillingness to specify his demands on Ethiopia was delaying the negotiations in the Anglo-French-Italian conference.

It is made clear, however, that Mussolini insists on armed occupation of Ethiopia to enforce any concessions given Italy.

"The whole thing has been dumped into Mussolini's lap," said the spokesman. "If Italy claims that political control of Ethiopia shall not remain in Paris very long."

The British declaration was made as the representatives of all three countries moved from three hours of secret conversation into the cloak room of the Foreign Office for the first full three-party session.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, who again had refrained from answering French and British requests for a clear statement of the Italian demands, was said by the British spokesman to have telephoned directly to Mussolini before the general meeting.

Against Political Control. The British were represented as adamant against Italian political control of Ethiopia.

"The British and French Governments," said the British spokesman, "never interpreted the 1906 treaty (among Great Britain, France and Italy) as a thieves' agreement to grab the political control of Ethiopia."

"There can be no agreement here in Paris unless the Italians frankly state their desires, which they have shown no willingness to do, although Great Britain and France have been trying since May to get such a declaration."

"It is clear the Ethiopian Government must be unwilling to state the maximum it will do before Italy says just what she wants, because Emperor Haile Selassie fears the other side will want double anything he says."

Secret Conference. Premier Laval of France, Baron Aloisi and Anthony Eden of Great Britain had met in secret earlier in the day.

The three conducted their talk in the ante-chamber of the cloak room of the Foreign Ministry where representatives of their countries, in 1928, signed the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war.

For a few minutes, Robert G. Vann, British Permanent Foreign Under-Secretary, sat in on the conference but, for the rest of the meeting, the three were alone.

Twelve other experts and secretaries sat outside the ante-chamber until an hour and a half had elapsed and they were all called in for luncheon.

After luncheon, Premier Laval

PAPE OPPOSES BOND ISSUE FOR RIVER FRONT MEMORIAL

Too Many Uncertainties as to Federal Aid and Disposition of Levee Tracks, Republican City Chairman Says.

Fred W. Pape, chairman of the Republican City Committee, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today he was opposed to the proposed $7,500,000 bond issue for the proposed river front Jefferson Memorial because of limitation of commitment of Federal aid for the first year's work, and because the disposition of the elevated railroad tracks along the levee had not been settled.

John P. English, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, said to a reporter that he expected to vote for the bond issue, but that he was undecided whether to do any active work for it.

"The improvement undoubtedly would be a desirable thing for the city," Pape said, "but there are too many uncertainties about it. I would be for it if there were a definite commitment from the Federal Government to supply the funds to complete it, and if it were settled that the railroad tracks would be removed."

"The Federal officials, it appears, cannot make any commitment beyond the money which can be expended the first year. There is no way we can be certain what will happen after that. It might be a big burden would be thrown on the city. I do not think we want to take that chance at this time."

Both Pape and English said they knew of no activity in the party committees on the bond issue. Pape said he expected to call a meeting of the committee before the election.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO BUY POST'S PLANE 'WINNIE MAE'

Craft Would Be Put in Smithsonian Institution; Two Senators Pay Tribute.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Senate passed and sent to the House today the Thomas bill authorizing Government purchase of the Post-Gatty round-the-world plane "Winnie Mae," for $25,000. The plane would be placed in the Smithsonian Institution. Senators Gore and Thomas of Oklahoma paid tribute to Will Rogers and Wiley Post, both Oklahomans.

Gore said he saw Rogers "rise by his own talents from obscurity to the very summit of fame. He was a Cherokee Indian. He was more than a humorist; he was a philosopher. He was more than a philosopher; he was a humanitarian. My State has suffered a double tragedy."

Thomas, remarking the coincidence that his bill should be reached on the calendar today as news of Post's death was received, said it was a "fitting tribute to a brave explorer and intrepid pilot."

He described Rogers as "an American institution."

HOUSE BEGINS CONSIDERATION OF GUFFEY BILL

Republicans Attack Constitutionality of Measure to Regulate Soft Coal Industry.

BYRNS PREPARES FOR NIGHT SESSION

Vote to Take Up Proposal Is 241 to 94—Treadway Reads Oath That Is Given to Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Amid Republican attacks on its constitutionality, the Guffey bill was taken up today by the House. The vote for immediate consideration was 241 to 94.

Speaker Byrns planned to keep the House in session tonight if necessary to wind up eight hours of debate and obtain a vote on passage.

The vote to consider the bill came after an hour's argument during which Representative Treadway (Rep.) Massachusetts, read the oath all Congressmen take to defend the Constitution.

He read from the letter President Roosevelt wrote Chairman Samuel B. Hill of a Ways and Means subcommittee which handled the bill, urging that doubts as to constitutionality, "however reasonable," not be allowed to block the legislation.

Treadway's Objections. "I decline to follow that advice," Treadway said. "I believe the bill is unconstitutional and I believe the President is of the same mind."

"Isn't it a fact," demanded Representative Sisson (Dem.), New York, "that conditions of miners and operators were better under the NRA than ever before?" Great Britain, Germany and all other coal producing countries have had to come to the plan outlined in this bill.

Byrns asked Acting Majority Leader Taylor and Representative Boland, the Democratic whip, to keep members on the floor.

Faddis Defends Measure. Representative Faddis (Dem.), Pennsylvania, contended "no more meritorious legislation had come before the House. He criticized mining police in Pennsylvania as 'infamous' and said they 'beat a man to death'."

Faddis said the bill was an attempt to "raise living standards and do justice to 500,000 workers who go down into the earth to earn their daily bread."

The bill, backed by President Roosevelt, would create a national bituminous coal commission, which would administer a wage, hour, trade-practice and price-fixing code for the industry. It seeks to force compliance with the code by levying a 15 per cent tax on the value of coal, giving a 90 per cent rebate to operators who abide by the code but charging the full tax against the others.

When one House leader was asked by a newspaper man if the time allowed for debate was not mean passage of the bill by the House would be delayed until next week, he replied that, frankly, he didn't care.

Reports had been circulated by Democratic leaders in both House and Senate that the bill would not pass the upper house this session. Supporters of the measure, among them Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, House Democratic whip, insisted such reports were "propaganda, circulated purely for the purpose of trying to defeat the bill."

Boland said: "The House will pass the Guffey coal bill." Some leaders, however, insisted that on a poll Boland made of the House he was 30 votes short of a majority of the probable number voting.

'NEWS WE'VE DREADED FOR YEARS,' POST'S FATHER SAYS

Flyer's Parents Told of His Death on Their Farm Near Maysville, Ok.

By the Associated Press. MAYSVILLE, Ok., Aug. 16.—Wiley Post's father, W. F. Post, said, "This is the news we've been dreading for years," when he and his wife received word at their farm two and a half miles from here of the flyer's death.

There is no telephone at the Post farm, and first word of the tragedy was taken to the parents by Fred Scott, Mayor of Maysville, and his wife, who drove to the farm with William Shown, publisher of the Maysville News.

Mrs. Post said over and over, tears coursing down her cheeks, "Oh, can it be so? I hope it isn't."

Post said the family "had been living in dread of this for years and years, but it is such a shock to know that our boy has been killed." As the news spread throughout the Maysville farming section where the flyer had been "just a home town boy," friends and neighbors dropped their tasks and hurried to the Post farm to offer their sympathies.

WILL ROGERS AND WILEY POST KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

pack off Wainwright, 75 miles southwest of Barrow, following its annual visit there. Barrow is more than 300 miles inside the Arctic Circle, and its "harbor" is open to shipping only at intervals. Post was taking his pontoon-equipped plane to Point Barrow from Fairbanks where he took off late yesterday. When Post learned that a dense fog shrouded Point Barrow, he set his ship down on the small stream.

The Department of Commerce at Washington, through Secretary Roper, ordered inspectors to proceed at once to the scene of the wreck. The inspectors, however, lack jurisdiction to act, as the accident did not occur on a regular airline, and the plane was privately owned.

Barrow, northernmost white settlement in America, has a population of several hundred natives and about a dozen whites, including the signal corps operator, his wife, and child, Dr. Greist, his family, and the nurses in the Presbyterian Hospital.

Visited Matanuska Colony. Post and Rogers had been entertained in Fairbanks for several days while their plane was being serviced. They flew in a regular transport plane to Anchorage Wednesday and visited the Matanuska colony near there.

The pair left Fairbanks last night but set their plane down on Harding Lake, 50 miles away, to await lifting of dense fog in the Barrow region.

Rogers said he wanted to go to Barrow to visit Charles Brower, known throughout Alaska as the "King of the Arctic" because of his 51 years of residence. Brower operates a trading post and whaling station at the settlement, which is 11 miles from where Point Barrow juts into the Arctic Ocean.

This was Post's second crash in Alaska. On his first round-trip flight, his red monoplane, Winnie Mae, was damaged in a forced landing near Flat, on the Yukon River in Central Alaska. Post was unhurt and succeeded in repairing his plane and continuing his flight after a delay of less than a day.

Two days ago in Anchorage Rogers said he planned to spend the winter in Alaska with "sourdoughs" denuded in their cabins along the Yukon and Mackenzie Rivers.

Post's plane was a new one, built in Burbank, Cal., for the flight to Siberia. It was a specially built model of low wing construction similar to the ship used by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on their flight to Japan in 1931 and across the Atlantic air routes in 1933. Down to Seattle as a land plane, the ship was fitted with pontoons there.

Signal Corps Officer Reports Crash, Tells of Finding Bodies.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 16.—The deaths of Wiley Post and Will Rogers were first reported to the United States Army Signal Corps headquarters here by its Point Barrow station. The first message from Staff Sgt. Morgan, only Army man on duty at the settlement, said: "Post and Rogers crashed 15 miles south of here at 5 o'clock last night. Have recovered bodies and

Humorist Joked Mrs. Post Until She Decided Not to Go on Flight

Itinerary of Aviator Who Had Planned Air Journey to Russia—Party Warmly Welcomed in Alaska.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 16.—Post arrived here from the South on Aug. 1, accompanied by Mrs. Post, who had planned to make a Siberian trip with her husband. At San Francisco, he was delayed several days obtaining passport permission to enter Russia. He said at that time he planned to go on to Moscow, after "hunting tigers" in Siberia. Ambassador Troyanovsky, then at San Francisco, said they would be warmly welcomed at Moscow.

White Post was here, Russian flyers took work for a time, then flew North and joined Post here on Aug. 5. He left Los Angeles under an assumed name but his identity was soon discovered.

On the next day, Rogers and Post took test flights in Post's plane, which had by then been equipped with pontoons. Rogers also found time for a workout with polo players here. He was their guest that evening and told them that he was going to "get a polo team going on the Matanuska project," as that was about the "only thing the Democrats haven't done for the colony."

Why Mrs. Post Did Not Go. That evening, friends disclosed later, Rogers joked Mrs. Post about the hunting and fishing they planned on isolated Alaskan lakes, saying it was "no place for a lady." The joking, in which Post joined, finally determined Mrs. Post not to make the trip.

Consequently, the next morning, Aug. 7, when the two hopped from the Renton Airport of Lake Washington, south of here, Mrs. Post was left behind. She said the trip might be "too strenuous."

She remained here only a few days, then flew south in a private plane to San Francisco. Post and Rogers made a leisurely placed them in care of Dr. Greist. Standing by on Anchorage hourly.

Rogers' Daughter and Wife Notified at Skowhegan, Me. SKOWHEGAN, Me., Aug. 16.—Mary Rogers, 19 years old, only daughter of Will Rogers, was in rehearsal with the Lakewood Summer Theatre players when word of her father's death reached here. Mrs. Rogers also was here. She arrived Tuesday afternoon from California with Miss Theba Blake, her sister. Rogers' son, James, had planned to come here next Monday.

"Wish I Had Been With Him," Mrs. Post Cries.

PONCA CITY, Ok., Aug. 16.—"I wish I had been with him when he crashed," Mrs. Wiley Post cried today on learning of her husband's death in Alaska. Prostrated by grief, Mrs. Post went to bed for several hours, then left by airplane for Oklahoma City on her way to Maysville, the Post family home.

WASHINGTON COMMENT WILEY POST'S CAREER AS AIRPLANE PILOT ON DEATH OF ROGERS

"Oh, That's Awful Bad!" Says Garner—Tributes in Both Houses.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The capital, where Will Rogers was loved as few others of his time, grieved today to hear of his death. "Oh, that is awful bad!" exclaimed Vice-President Garner, raising his hands on learning that his humorist friend and Wiley Post had crashed. "Just two mighty good men have been lost to the world. I can't talk about it. Rogers was one of the best friends I had."

Tribute in Senate. As soon as a quorum was assembled in the Senate chamber, Senator Robinson of Arkansas rose from his chair directly in front of the Vice-President.

"Probably the most widely known citizen of the United States, and certainly the best loved, met his death some hours ago in a lonely and far away place," he said, as other Senators listened in complete silence.

"We pause for a moment in the midst of our duties to pay brief tribute to his memory and that of his gallant companion. 'I do not think of Will Rogers as dead. I shall remember him always as a sensible, courageous and loyal friend, possessed of unusual and notable talent. He made fun for all mankind. In nothing he ever said was there an intentional sting. He was kind, generous and patriotic. His companion was a courageous representative of a gallant group who on the wings of adventure sought remote places and conquered long distances. All the nation mourns these great citizens. They were both representatives of the highest type of manhood.'"

"Peace to them." Republican Leader McNary rose immediately to say that every Republican Senator "shares the same feeling." He said Rogers had brought joy and good feeling to America and would be missed by everyone.

Announcement in House. An old friend of Rogers and Post, Representative Jed Johnson (Dem.) Oklahoma, was selected by Speaker Byrns to announce to the House that the men had been killed. Johnson called Rogers and Post "two of the world's outstanding citizens."

"Not only are members of Congress shocked and stunned to receive this news," Johnson said, "but the entire world will mourn the loss of these two beloved and outstanding citizens, both of whom are native sons of the great commonwealth of Oklahoma."

"As is well known, Will Rogers grew to manhood on a farm in Eastern Oklahoma, with no advantages than the average country boy. He was what is generally called a self-made man."

Annual Garner Dinner. The annual Garner dinner to President Roosevelt will not be the same without Rogers in his "old blue serge" to "lambast everybody." Both Garner and Rogers "hated" dress suits.

As guest of the Vice-President on the Washington Hotel roof Jan. 29, 1934, and Jan. 17, 1935, the President each time lingered far past the hour he was supposed to go home and Garner—famed for retiring early—stayed up until 3 in the morning.

Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War in the Hoover administration, friend of Rogers since they were boys together in Oklahoma, called him "one of the cleanest, finest characters I have ever known. He was one of nature's noblemen."

"I knew Wiley Post well also. He was a brilliant and intrepid flyer," he said. Mayor Frank S. Shaw of Los Angeles, here on business, said: "I was with Will only two weeks ago. No words could say now would completely express my sorrow."

Representative Boland of Pennsylvania said: "No one realized Rogers' genius for judging current events better than members of Congress."

Speaker Byrns said he had a premonition the trouble would come to Rogers on the Alaskan flight.

"When I read he was going on that long trip," he said, "I told my wife, 'I wish Will Rogers wouldn't do that.' I said he was liable to get killed."

Senator McAdoo, who knew Rogers as a fellow Californian, said: "His loss will be felt by untold millions."

Stephen B. Gibbon, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of Coast Guard, instructed the service to do anything possible to facilitate transportation of the bodies. The Coast Guard said its cutter Northland was thought to be in the immediate vicinity and would proceed to help.

The nine-bed medical center is maintained by the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Last winter Dr. Greist fought an influenza epidemic in the settlement. Serums and fuel were carried by airplane to the post from faraway points.

Wiley Post, Texan-born farm boy, who preferred whittling wooden airplane models to hoeing cotton, in making the first and only solo flight round the world also set a new record for circumnavigating the globe.

Landing his ship, Winnie Mae, at New York, July 22, 1933, he completed his flight in seven days, 15 hours and 50 seconds, bettering the record he had set in 1931, with Harold Gatty as navigator, of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes.

Post and Gatty received the Distinguished Flying Cross from President Hoover in ceremonies at Washington following their flight. The taciturn Texan, stocky, brown-eyed, brown-haired, was well known at Lambert-St. Louis Field, where he made frequent stops on his trips to and from the East. He was a guest of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon Sept. 19, 1933, when he described his solo flight.

Left School at Age of 15. Leaving grammar school in 1913 at the age of 15, Post enrolled as a student in a Kansas City automobile school and became a garage mechanic and oil field worker.

In order that he might be about airplanes, Post became a wing-walker with a barnstorming air circus when not employed as a mechanic. His day wages at garages made it difficult to save enough for a ship of his own.

But his finances were improved by misfortune. In a machine shop at Holdenville, Ok., he lost the sight of his left eye. He received $2000 as compensation. Immediately, with the white patch that marked him thereafter over his left eye, he set out to look for a plane. He obtained an old Cuckoo at his price and set about barnstorming on his own.

Against Women.

By the Associated Press.
KENNETT, Mo., Aug. 16.—C. D. Ward, 35 years old, Arkansas Negro, was hanged here this morning for criminal attack on two Malden women more than two years ago. The trap was sprung at 8:01 a. m. and he was pronounced dead 13 minutes later.

The Negro walked steadily up the scaffold steps and took his position, chanting a prayer and continually waving his arms until they were tied behind him. He previously confessed the crime, Sheriff Donaldson, who had charge of the execution, said.

Early this morning a parking space in the vicinity of the jail was filled and it was estimated by officers 5000 persons were here hoping they could gain entrance to the specially built pen. Only about 350 witnessed the hanging, however.

Ward, from Helena, Ark., was convicted in 1933. During the trial and afterward he asserted that he was innocent but, Sheriff Tom Donaldson announced, he confessed the crimes Wednesday night after calling the Sheriff to his cell.

Ward, the Sheriff said, seemed relieved by his confession and exclaimed that he "had made his peace with God."

Two other men to have been hanged in Southeast Missouri today received two-week stays from Gov. Park last Tuesday. They are Roy E. Hamilton and Eddie Gayman, who were to have died on the gallows at New Madrid for the killing of Arthur Cashion in a filling station holdup.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 16.—The will of former United States Senator Frederick H. Gillett, filed yesterday provides that the income from the residue of his estate shall eventually go toward maintenance and extension of the work of the Westfield Y. M. C. A.

The residue shall be invested until such time as the Y. M. C. A. shall erect a building for community service to cost not less than $100,000, at which time the income shall become available. To his wife, Mrs. Christine Gillett, he leaves $100,000, the only large personal bequest.

MOONEY CASE WITNESS ASKED ABOUT HIS TRIPS

MacDonald "Thinks" Chicago Labor Leader Paid for One of California Journeys.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 16.—Details of two expense-paid trips to California, made by John MacDonald, witness in the Tom Mooney bombing case, to testify in Mooney's behalf, were aired here yesterday as MacDonald continued his testimony before a referee named by the California Supreme Court.

MacDonald, who has repudiated his testimony at the trial, refused to go before a California grand jury in 1921 when asked to waive immunity from prosecution for perjury.

Earlier in the day, MacDonald testified on cross-examination that he did not now recall clearly the events of the week immediately following the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, for which Mooney is serving a life term in prison.

On direct examination by Mooney's attorneys, however, MacDonald had testified to his movements during that week. The testimony taken here will be used by the Court in considering Mooney's application for writ of habeas corpus.

Deputy Attorney-General William Cleary of California questioned the witness for four hours, trying to impeach the testimony he has given at this hearing. MacDonald has testified that he perjured himself at the trial in 1917 when he identified Mooney.

The first of the two California trips was made by MacDonald in February, 1921, shortly after he had sworn to an affidavit in New York that he had testified falsely in the 1917 trial. The trip began immediately and MacDonald, according to his testimony, was given "$400 or $500" by Jack Johnson, also known to him as Thompson.

During the making of the affidavit in New York, MacDonald testified, he met Edward Nuckels, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Nuckels was present at the signing and also has been present at the hearing here this week.

The second California trip was made in 1930, when MacDonald appeared before the California Supreme Court at the hearing on the application of Warren K. Billings for a pardon. Billings was convicted with Mooney.

WHAT HOPSON TESTIFIED TO AT SENATE INQUIRY

He Suggested Administration Be Accused of Lobbying, Note Read by Black Brings Out.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-5 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Howard C. Hopson, poly-poly utility magnate, made his long-delayed appearance before the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee late yesterday. It was the most surprising development in a day of surprises.

Earlier in the day a show-down was reached in the unprecedented conflict between House and Senate Lobby Investigating Committees over custody of Hopson, when the House Rules Committee approved a resolution providing that while Hopson was in its custody, he would be made available to the Senate committee to testify.

The committee's action was a repudiation of the attitude of Chairman John J. O'Connor (Dem.), New York, who had shielded Hopson against a Senate contempt citation, and had declared that the Senate committee could not have him until the Rules Committee was finished with him.

Resentment among House members over O'Connor's tactics had been heightened by the disclosure before the Senate committee that his brother, Basil O'Connor, recently received a $25,000 legal fee from Hopson's giant Associated Gas &
Electric system.

His Surrender Arranged.
Black's penetrating questions quickly elicited from Hopson testimony corroborating a general suspicion, to wit, that his surrender to the House Committee was pursuant to an arrangement between Hop-son's lawyer and a representative of the Rules Committee. O'Connor has sought to give the impression that his men tracked Hopson down and brought him in.

In reply to Black, Hopson said he told officials of his system to tell the New York Times that unless it changed its editorial policy toward holding companies, his system would cancel its advertising in the Times. At the same time, he recommended that more advertising be given to the Hearst papers, whose policy was more satisfactory to him.

He suggested to his subordinates, moreover, that they "work on" the Scripps-Howard papers. He pointed out that both the Hearst and Scripps-Howard chains are owned by holding companies. He rejected the suggestion that the association, in its propaganda campaign against the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill, abandon newspaper advertising in favor of radio broadcasts.

Long Speeches Halted.
When Hopson attempted to employ the method he had used before the House Committee of making long speeches in answer to questions, Black called him sharply to order.

"That won't work with this committee," he snapped. "You answer questions and stop that. If you don't, I shall take the proper action."

The rotund millionaire winced under the ferocity of Black's manner and language.

Black produced a memorandum in which Hopson outlined a plan of campaign against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. It was Hopson, the memorandum disclosed, who suggested that the Administration be accused of lobbying on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. That was the original charge made by O'Connor in launching his investigation.

"Take the offensive," he advised.
"When they make their alleged startling discoveries, say 'What of it?'"

Telegram About Hurley.
There was a telegram from Duncan Robinson, Hopson's secretary, from Miami Beach, where he and the boss were resting, to the New York office, which asked:

"Did you get Hurley straightened out?"

Hopson said it obviously alluded to Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War, whose law firm received fees totaling $100,000 from Associated in less than three years, mainly for opposing legislation.
But he couldn't recall what it meant.

Hopson complained about the "unfair" reporting of the present investigation. He said some of the newspaper accounts "made it appear that the utilities are a lot of pirates, blackguards and thieves."
He seemed hurt by the laughter that ensued.

TAX BILL PASSED BY SENATE, GOES TO CONFERENCE

Vote 57-22—Leaders Hope for Early Agreement So Congress Can Adjourn Next Week.

DISPUTES LIKELY ON SOME POINTS

One Will Center Around Borah Amendment to Bar Federal Tax-Exempt Securities.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—After going through the Senate in record time, the tax bill designed to raise $280,000,000 from new levies on million-dollar incomes, large corporations, estates and gifts, went to conference today. Democratic leaders hope that differences between House and Senate can be settled in time to adjourn Congress next week.

One controversy started even before the Senate, by a 57 to 22 vote, passed its Finance Committee's bill late yesterday at the end of two days' debate.

It centered around an amendment, which the Senate approved at the request of Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, to prohibit the Federal Government from issuing tax-exempt securities in the future. The Treasury was fighting this, and there was opposition in the House.

Estate Inheritance Taxes. Another stumbling block facing conferees, who will seek to reconcile the Senate bill with a tax bill already passed by the House, was the question of taxes on estates and inheritances. The Senate substituted increases in the present estate taxes for the new inheritance levies approved by the House.

The Senate also voted for higher gift taxes on donors, instead of the House's new levies on recipients of gifts; it raised the surtax rates on individual net incomes over $10,000, whereas the House started the increases at $50,000; it increased the House graduated corporation income taxes; reduced the other chamber's excess profits rates; increased existing capital stock taxes, and imposed a new tax on dividends received by one corporation from another.

The Borah Amendment.

The Borah amendment, approved 40 to 39, would make the income from future issues of Government bonds subject to income tax. Treasury officials argued that it would seriously handicap the Roosevelt financial program and place the Government at a disadvantage in borrowing as States and municipalities would still have the right to issue tax-free securities.

Besides making it difficult to obtain funds to finance the $4,000,000,000 work relief program, officials said, the amendment would raise the cost of all money obtained by the Government.

President Roosevelt in his tax message had recommended a constitutional amendment to permit simultaneous taxation of income from both Federal and State bonds. The Senate's scrapping of inheritance levies is expected to encounter strong House opposition in conference. The proposed inheritance taxes ranged from 4 per cent on the first taxable $10,000 to 75 per cent on that part above $10,000,000. For these, the Senate substituted increases in existing taxes on estates. These new levies would rise from 2 per cent on the first taxable $10,000 to 70 per cent on the excess over $50,000,000.

President Roosevelt recommended an inheritance tax to be superimposed on existing estate levies as a means of breaking up large fortunes.

Silver Amendment.

Another amendment added by the Senate yesterday without a record vote was the proposal of Senator McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, to repeal three sections of the Silver Purchase Act. These levy a 50 per cent tax on silver trading profits, provide for nationalization of the metal and licensing of imports and exports. Some legislators said this was headed toward a doubtful fate in conference.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, a silverite, said the McCarran amendment would "bring the silver market back to America."

An open market in silver in this country ended when President Roosevelt called in the metal a year ago. The Treasury's objection to repeal of this nationalization was reported to be based on the view that the Government should keep control of the silver in this country.

Thomas said the silver-buying policy laid down by Congress had collapsed. This policy call for the Treasury to buy silver until it is one quarter of the metallic backing of American currency or until the price reaches $1.29 an ounce. Just before the final roll call, Thomas revived the soldiers' bonus issue, but only to get Democratic leaders on record in favor of giving this legislation a preferred status early next January.

Thomas offered the Patman inflationary bonus bill to pay the bonus immediately with new money but withdrew it when Senator Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader, announced the subject would be taken up next session.

By 62 to 19 the Senate rejected an amendment by La Follette (Prog.), Wisconsin, which would have started 4 per cent surtaxes at net income over $3000 instead of the present $4000 and increased them all along the line up to a maximum of 75 per cent on the taxable part over $5,000,000.

Then it rejected, 56 to 22, a second amendment starting higher surtaxes on net incomes over $5000, which La Follette said would boost the revenues by $96,000,000.

Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan supporting the La Follette amendment, said taxes were linked closely to expenditures. He then cited figures to show that NRA administrative expenses were $1,017,000 last July, six weeks after it "was supposed to have died," and only $857,046 in July, 1934, when it was operating at its peak.

"We should demolish these dead bureaus," he said. Beaten twice with his new surtax schedules, La Follette withdrew his amendment calling for lowering of personal income tax exemptions from $2500 to $2000 for married and from $1000 to $800 for single persons.

Other Amendments.

Several minor amendments were accepted by the Senate after Senator Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, chairman of the Finance Committee, had said he would have no objection to their going to conference.

One, by Senator Loneragan (Dem.), Connecticut, would exempt from taxation that part of the proceeds of a life insurance policy taken out for the payment of estate, inheritance, succession legacy or other death duties.

Another, by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, would repeal the extra three cents a pound import duty on whale and sperm oils. Copeland said the three cents was added in 1934 to the then existing duty of six cents and served to shut out imports entirely. The result, he said, was to force Europe to use its surplus whale oil without importing American lard and other oils.

A new tax on the processing of Philippine coconut oil is contained in the tax bill. The provision was quietly inserted by the Senate Finance Committee and was not contained in the House version of the measure. The tax applies only to coconut oil processed in the Philippines or other countries outside the United States into the form of fatty acids and other derivatives used in soap manufacture. Such processed oils under a ruling of the Bureau of Internal Revenue act now are exempt from excise taxes.

The Senate named the following conferees: Harrison, King (Dem.), Utah; George (Dem.), Georgia; La Follette and Metcalf (Rep.), Rhode Island.

Roll Call on Bill.

The roll call on passage of the bill follows:

FOR THE BILL.

Two Boys Killed in Explosion.

By the Associated Press. POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Aug. 16.—Two children are dead as result of an explosion which occurred while they were pouring gasoline into a tank of a small electric light plant late Wednesday. John Gray Jr., 9 years old, died a few hours after the explosion, and his brother, Bobby, 7, died last night in a hospital here. They were sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray of Harviell, near here.

U.S. APPEALS COURT DENIES INJUNCTION AGAINST AAA TAX

Judges at San Francisco Refuse, 2 to 1, Temporary Writ to Halt Processing Payments.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The Ninth United States Circuit Court of Appeals declined, temporarily at least, yesterday to interfere with the payment of AAA processing taxes by milling companies in the State of Washington.

The court, which had jurisdiction in seven Western states, denied a temporary restraining order sought by milling companies to prevent the Government from collecting the tax. The tribunal ruled that the showing made by the companies was insufficient to warrant a restraining writ.

It was a 2-to-1 decision, and the second in the country by a Circuit Court of Appeals in a processing tax case. On July 13 the first Circuit Court of Appeals at Boston ruled the tax unconstitutional by a 3-to-2 decision. This ruling was given in a test action instituted by receivers of the Hoonac Mills, which sought recovery of $81,694 paid in processing and floor taxes on cotton used in manufacturing textiles.

Seattle Judge Denied Writ. The Fisher, Cenennial and Ritzville milling companies of Washington State sought the restraining order, after United States District Judge Edward E. Cushman of Tacoma had denied it. Regular appeals in the cases and pleas for permanent injunctions will be considered by the Ninth Circuit in October.

The three companies will pay more than $200,000 in flour processing taxes for June to Internal Revenue Collector Alex McK. Vickers at Seattle today, when a 10-day time extension expires.

Presiding Judge Francis A. Garrecht delivered the opinion orally from the bench, stating that the Court had had no opportunity to consider at length the constitutional points involved.

It is the opinion of the majority," he said, "that a showing on the motion is not sufficient to warrant the Court in disregarding section 3224, revised statutes of the United States." (This section prohibits court interference with imposition of taxes.)

Dissenting Opinion. In dissenting from the majority, Judge William Denman declared he believed "the rights of the parties should be temporarily conserved until we can give the case a consideration of the merits."

All three of the judges refused to consider the plea of the milling companies that pending legislation may block refunds of the processing taxes, even though the Supreme Court should hold them unconstitutional. Judge Denman said the Court should not "govern its action by a possible future enactment of the Congress."

In California alone, 24 temporary restraining orders in similar cases have been issued to manufacturers by lower court Federal Judges. United States Attorneys H. H. McPike of San Francisco and Peirson M. Hall of Los Angeles said they would move at once for a setting aside of these orders, to force payment of the taxes.

Government Attorneys Planning Counter Attack in AAA Suits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Government lawyers outlined a counter attack against court assaults on the agriculture adjustment administration yesterday as Congress sent to the administration a new weapon—the AAA amendments.

The Justice Department disclosed it would move to dissolve the 509 temporary injunctions which have stopped collection of processing taxes. Most of the 1112 suits against AAA have asked the lower courts to stop collection of the taxes on the grounds that "irreparable loss" was an "imminent threat" to processors if the AAA amendments passed.

$11,000,000 FROM WORKS FUND FOR SIX PROJECTS

Roosevelt Allots $4,500,000 for Arizona Reclamation Undertaking.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Irrigation and reclamation projects in six Western states were approved today by President Roosevelt, who allotted $11,000,000 from the work relief fund for them.

Heading the list was $4,500,000 allotted to the Reclamation Bureau for one year's work on the Salt River Valley project in Arizona. It is estimated $6,844,000 will be needed for its completion.

The other allotments included $1,000,000 for the Payette division of the Boise reclamation project in Gem County, Idaho; $2,900,000 for continuing construction on the Provo River project in Utah for another year; $1,000,000 for continuing work on the Riverton reclamation project in Wyoming; $1,800,000 for construction of an earthen dam for water storage in the Alamogordo reservoir on the Pecos River and lining with concrete a part of the Carlsbad Canal system in New Mexico; and $200,000 for rehabilitation of the Bitter Root Canal system and repair of the storage reservoir outlet work in Montana.

THREE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH IN E. ST. LOUIS

Girl and Two Youths Meet Death When Car Hits Cattle Truck — Young Woman Hurt.

Three persons were killed when an automobile in which they were speeding east in St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, crashed head-on into a cattle truck Thursday night.

Miss Virginia Mayer, 18 years old 515 North Combs avenue, Collinsville.

Steve Gumlian, 21, the driver, 5019 Bunkum road, St. Clair County.

Joseph Kotlarik, 20, 2304 North
Forty-seventh street, Washington Park.

Miss Martha Walker, 18, 414
Combs avenue, Collinsville, escaped with scalp wounds and bruises. She was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

David M. Woods, a farmer, of Equality, Ill., was driving west in St. Clair avenue, near Eighteenth street, shortly before 11 o'clock, on his way to the National Stockyards with a load of cattle, sheep and hogs. He later reported to police that the machine driven by Gumlian approached at high speed, attempted to pass another automobile in the six-lane thoroughfare, and crashed into the truck.

Martin Taylor, 1704 St. Clair avenue, a witness, gave a similar account.

The automobile was demolished and the occupants were thrown in the street. The impact disabled the steering gear of the truck, which swerved across the sidewalk
before Woods was able to stop.
Five sheep were killed. Miss Mayer, Gumlian and Kotlarik were pronounced dead at St. Mary's Hospital. The skull of each was crushed and Kotlarik's neck was broken.

Gumlian, a packing houses laborer, borrowed the automobile from his stepfather, Matt Rogan-ich, a tavern proprietor, and drove to Collinsville with Kotlarik to attend a party. They left the party with Miss Mayer and Miss Walker for a drive to East St. Louis. Miss Mayer sat in the front seat with the driver and Miss Walker was in the rear seat with Kotlarik.

FUNDS REPORTED ASSURED FOR MISSOURI RIVER PROJECT

Roosevelt Said to Have Promised More Work Relief Money for Extending Channel.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. — Missouri River navigation advocates said yesterday President Roosevelt had assured them more work relief funds will be allocated for the channel development project.

Senators Burke (Dem.), Nebraska,
Murphy (Dem.), Iowa, Rulow (Dem.), South Dakota, and former Gov. Arthur J. Weaver of Nebraska, asked the President to allot an additional $10,000,000 to complete the six-foot navigable channel to Sioux City, Ia. A $10,000,000 allotment already made will complete it to Omaha. Burke said the President promised some additional funds would be provided, although the amount remained in doubt.

MARE USED IN HORSE-ZEBRA HYBRID EXPERIMENT KILLED

President Theodore Roosevelt Provided Zebra Presented by King of Ethiopia.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Baby Gates, a mare used in an experiment directed by President Theodore Roosevelt and the Emperor of Ethiopia, has been killed to save the cost of her feed. She was 28 years old.

The experiment was cross-breeding of the horse with a zebra stallion, presented to the President by the Ethiopian ruler. In the end, the hybrids were found to retain too much of the zebra wildness for domestication.

Some were sold to a circus, where the trainers were much elated over their success with the animals. After months of work they finally were pronounced ready for a performance. But half way through the act, the horse-zebra troupe stampeded.

Some of the hybrids produced in the experiments extending from 1908 to 1909 are still on exhibition at the Washington Zoological Park.

CONGRESS SENDS AAA AMENDMENTS TO THE PRESIDENT

House and Senate Complete Their Approval of Bill. Designed to Strengthen Crop Control.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The House and Senate completed passage of the Agricultural Adjustment Act amendments, designed to strengthen the crop control program, and sent the bill to President Roosevelt yesterday.

The amendments were first introduced in carrying out the farm program and seek to prepare it for its test in the Supreme Court.

The amendments were first introduced, in different form, in the last session of Congress. Revised to meet strong opposition, they were offered again early in this session, only to be modified in the light of the Supreme Court's decision holding NRA invalid.

Compromise on Tax Suits.
One of the controversial points was the section barring suits by processors to recover processing taxes in the event the levies are held unconstitutional. A compromise was reached by the Senate and House.

As passed by the House, the legislation prohibited suits to recover. The Senate changed this to allow processors to sue if they could show they had not passed the taxes on to the consumer or producer.

Under the compromise, the processors may sue, but first they must submit their claims to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who will place his findings before the court. The processors still must show they have not passed the taxes along. The amendments also specifically seek to validate the processing taxes.

Other Provisions of Bill.
Among other things, the bill provides:

Permission for the Secretary of Agriculture to draft marketing agreements, with the consent of the majority of producers or processors, for these commodities: Milk, fruits (except apples), tobacco, vegetables, soybeans, pecans, walnuts and naval stores. Vegetables and fruits for canning are exempt.

Extension for one year of the Bankhead cotton control and Kerr-Smith tobacco control acts and authorization of a similar program for potatoes.

Authorization to use 30 per cent of customs receipts—estimated at $80,000,000 annually—to finance export of crop surpluses—except cotton—under the export debenture plan.

Use of part of the four billions works fund to buy up sub-marginal farm land.

Start of the "ever-normal granary" plan under which the Government could make loans to producers to induce them to hold surplus crops on farms. In years of shortages, the stored crops would be made available and the loans repaid.

Administration of the potato control program will be placed in the hands of J. B. Hutson, administrator for tobacco, rice, peanuts and sugar. A. E. Mercker, potato expert of the Department of Agriculture, will be associated with Hutson in administering the potato law.

Statement by Wallace.
Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told reporters yesterday that the AAA "has not and will not change its goal."

"The concept from the beginning," Wallace said, "has been to produce a normal supply per capita for the American consumer and not to produce a surplus for a foreign market which has been lost."

A change in plans for the 1936 wheat control program, announced Wednesday, was not an "about-face" for the AAA, Wallace said. The Farm Administration announced that the wheat acreage reduction to be required of contract signers next year will be 5 per cent of their base acreage. A 15 per cent reduction had been announced two weeks ago, but that was before the crop report released Aug. 9, which indicated a loss of 123,000,000 bushels in the 1935 wheat crop during July.

Wallace stressed that American farmers "must avoid producing stuff that can not be sold abroad at fair prices."

Comment on Hog Prices.
Referring to complaint about higher prices of hogs and pork, Wallace smiled and said, "the price of hogs isn't so far out of line." He said that in 1932 and 1933, prices of hogs were down to about one-third of parity, or what the AAA terms fair exchange value. This condition, he said, "was worse than five-cent cotton."

The new amendments to the Agriculture Adjustment Act, Wallace said, will permit increased "adjustment" of production by permitting benefit payments for increased production. Previously, benefit payments could be made only for crop reductions. However, Wallace said carefully, there is little likelihood of this provision being put to use except in cases of grave emergency.

PWA Grant for Nashville, Ill.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—A grant of $44,181 and a loan of $54,000 for a sewer system and sewage treatment plant at Nashville, Ill., was announced today by the Public Works Administration. It was included in 21 non-Federal projects in various states that were allotted $1,285,978 by President Roosevelt to cover 45 per cent of the costs.

once, "Mary went society on us." He wrote a dozen books and for many years wrote a short daily "box" for a number of newspapers, containing comment on the day's happenings.

He was mentioned as a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1931 but laughed the suggestion off by saying:

"A comedian can only last till he takes himself serious or his audience takes him serious and I don't want either one of those to happen to me until I'm dead (if then) so let's stop all this foolishness right now."

Some Will Rogers Humor.
Clem Rogers, his father, played a part in adopting the first Constitution of Oklahoma and a county was named for him. Of this Rogers said:

"Heck, they had to; nobody could pronounce the old name—Coowee-scowee."

In Claremore a hotel is named The Will Rogers, a six-story building which the comedian boasted had more bathrooms than Buckingham Palace.

"I used to envy Gen. Grant and Jesse James because they had cigars named after them. But shucks now I've kinda got it on 'em."

Once an interviewer suggested he took too many liberties with the laws of syntax. "What's that?" he asked, "Sounds like bad news." The other explained it meant grammar, whereupon Rogers laughed and replied, "Didn't know they was buying grammar now. I'm just so dumb I had a notion it was thoughts and ideas."

His most repeated remark was,

His employers in the motion picture industry never bothered to write dialogue for his films. He couldn't or wouldn't remember. He said just what seemed about the right thing to say at the time.

His studio prepared a "grand" place for him to occupy on the lot. A sand-d garden decorated with castus plants surrounded an adobe hut with an electric kitchen and a living room filled with Western and Indian trophies. Head of Tree Association Says Recruits Are Inferior.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, said in a statement today that the quality of the boys now going into the Civilian Conservation Corps was far below that of previous enlistments. "I am afraid the quality of the forest work by the CCC may now deteriorate because of the fact that the best type of young men desiring work are no longer interested in enrolling in the CCC," he said.

River Front Improvement, Culminating in Present Plan, Under Discussion Since 1907

River front improvement, for which the city is to vote on a $300,000 bond issue Sept. 16, has long been a subject of public discussion, resulting in the formulation of various plans from that of the Civic League of 1907 to the elaborate scheme published in 1928 by the City Plan Commission.

Since 1928 several proposals have been put forward for carrying out, with various modifications, the basic project of the Plan Commission as affecting the central river front area. As these proposals were abandoned, for one reason or another, the present plan was evolved for development of the district as a national memorial park honoring Thomas Jefferson and the Western pioneers, with the expectation that the Federal Government would pay three-fourths of the estimated cost of $200,000.

Cost has been the obstacle in the way of earlier plans. As proposed by the City Plan Commission, complete improvement of an area closely coinciding with that included in the present project would have cost about $200,000.

In the 1928 plan, the City Plan Commission, with E. J. Russell as chairman and Harland Bartholomew as engineer, recommended acquisition and improvement of the district between the river and Third street, from Franklin avenue on the north to Spruce street on the south, plus the block bounded by Third, Fourth, Chestnut and Market streets, and the east half of the block bounded by Third, Fourth, Walnut and Elm streets. In the present project, the north boundary is Eads bridge, but the south boundary extends to Poplar street. The east half of the block west of Third street between Walnut and Elm streets is not included.

Bartholomew's plan of 1928. Division of cost in the 1928 Bartholomew plan was as follows: $19,000,000 for widening and double-decking Third street and connecting it with Gravois avenue and Natural Bridge road; $22,000,000 for acquisition of property, raising the level and constructing permanent improvements including a high-level driveway and mall from the old courthouse to the river; $9,000,000 for extension of a high-level driveway and mall along the river front with connections to Clark avenue on the south and Eads bridge and Delmar boulevards on the north.

The present proposal is indefinite as to the improvement of Third street, one of the principal items in the major street plan, but it is obvious that it could not provide for the completion of Third street as contemplated in the Bartholomew plan.

Three methods of raising the huge cost of the ambitious project were discussed in the City Plan Commission report. One was a public bond issue for the full amount, but it was said this would absorb a disproportionate share of the city's bonding power and seriously impair the ability to issue bonds for other public needs.

The second method was a combination of public bonds and special assessments, the Commission stating: "This project will greatly enhance property values in the eastern portion of the business district. There will, undoubtedly, be possible recovery of a substantial part of the total cost through special assessment of benefits, as is now done in street widening projects. 'The full cost of the project could not be recovered, however.'"

The third method was a combination of the first two, with the addition of "excess condemnation." By excess condemnation was meant the taking of some land not actually needed for the project, and the subsequent sale or leasing of that excess property to private enterprise, at an advance so as to realize the enhancement of value and apply it on the cost.

An effort was made to amend the State Constitution to permit "excess condemnation," but this failed, and with the coming of the depression the possibility of paying for the improvement through a public bond issue or special assessments seemed to be remote.

"Progress Council" Proposal.

At this stage some downtown business men and property owners came forward with the "Progress Council" plan for obtaining options on the property. It was thought that by this means enough of the property might be contracted for, at or near assessed valuation, to assure the success of the improvement. Those behind this plan thought it might be possible to provide a city bond issue to pay for the optioned property or to raise a sufficient fund by private subscription, the subscribers forming a corporation to hold the property until the city was ready to take it over. The principal incentive was speed through avoidance of condemnation delays.

The Progress Council was an association which included the Associated Retailers, Merchants' Exchange, Downtown Improvement Association, Chamber of Commerce, Clearing House Association, Fruit and Produce Association, Convention, Publicity and Tourist Bureau, City Improvement Association, Hotel Men's Association, Building Owners' and Managers' Association, Franklin Avenue Improvement Association and Missouri Athletic Association.

In charge of obtaining options was a River Front Committee, of which the chairman was Claude B. Ricketts, manager of the Railway Exchange Building. Among other members were: Sidney R. Baer, Daniel K. Catlin, F. D. Chamberlain, David R. Francis Jr., Hugh McK. Jones, Isaac H. Orr, Edward G. Platt, John M. Robertson, F. Z. Salomon, Arnold G. Stifel, C. M.

Congress for an appropriation of $300,000 to construct on the river front a monumental park as a memorial to Thomas Jefferson and western pioneers, and commemorating the Louisiana Purchase. The St. Louisans talked of the national significance of such a memorial and did not fail to point out that the city proposed to honor the memory of a great leader of the party of Roosevelt and the Democratic majority in Congress.

Origin of Idea Uncertain.

There is some uncertainty as to who originated the idea but in its mature form it probably was an evolutionary development of many discussions. At any rate, Mayor Dickmann took it up and sponsored a resolution which he requested Senator Clark and Congressman Cochran to introduce in Congress at the beginning of its session in January, 1934.

The two St. Louisans introduced the resolution calling for an outright appropriation of $300,000 for the memorial, but they made it clear they had no hope of its passage. A few months later, on the advice of Congressman Cochran, who had said the appropriation resolution "would be gathering dust in Washington long after he was gone," Mayor Dickmann submitted a substitute, not asking for an appropriation but creating a "United States Territorial Expansion Memorial Commission," to make investigations and surveys of the St. Louis proposal.

This resolution was passed by Congress and was signed by President Roosevelt June 19, 1934. The act provided the Commission was to be composed of three Senators, three members of the House, three members to be appointed by the President and six to be selected by the Jeffersonian National Expansion Memorial Association of St. Louis. The Government was not to be liable for any expenses incurred by the Commission.

Following this action, the association, with Mayor Dickmann as honorary chairman and Luther Ely Smith as chairman, undertook a campaign to raise an expense fund. The amount sought was $250,000. In an intensive campaign, with teams of business men in the field, contributions of $120,000 were pledged by about 1500 subscribers in St. Louis. Collections so far amount to about $36,000.

Mayor Dickmann and backers of the project looked to the "work relief" fund proposed by President Roosevelt in the fall of 1934 and provided for by Congress in its $4,800,000,000 appropriation last spring, for aid in carrying out the development. They based the city's proposed bond issue of $750,000 on the expectation that the Federal Government would provide $22,500,000.

The State enabling act, passed by the 1935 Legislature, under which the bond election is to be held, provided the city might incur indebtedness of only one-fourth of the total amount to be expended; that is, one-third of what the Federal Government would expend.

Mayor Dickmann reported, following a recent trip to Washington, that Administrator Ickes of PWA and Administrator Hopkins of WPA had assured him, they would provide such funds as could be expended within a year, but could not make commitments for a longer period because of the limitation placed on the appropriation by Congress. Ickes explained later at a press conference that he had made no promises but said he thought the project could be "worked out."

Senator Clark, who was present at the conference of Mayor Dickmann with Ickes and Hopkins said he felt certain that once the project was started the Government would see it through. The amount that might be expended in the first year, principally for clearing the site, was estimated by Mayor Dickmann to be between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000.

The Jefferson National Expansion Memorial Association maintains an office in the City Hall with Russell Murphy, executive secretary, in charge. It proposes to conduct an active campaign in favor of the bond issue.

TROPICAL HUMMING BIRDS ARRIVE ALIVE

Pete French Brings Collection Including Snakes and Lizards for Zoo.

When Pete French, insurance salesman and former Missouri University football player, arrived at Union Station this morning, there was a good deal of excitement. He had to see that 13 tropical birds, six snakes, seven lizards and seven young boys all got to their proper destinations.

Most of the birds, the snakes and the lizards were for the St. Louis Zoo. The boys French had chaperoned on a six weeks' cruise of Central and South American waters. All in all, the birds and snakes were easier to handle. Henry M. Kennon, the zoo's ornithologist, was there and immediately took the cages, containing 10 humming birds, one sugar bird and a finch, and a tanager which French brought along for himself, out to the zoo's aviary. It was a good deal different from Wednesday, when 20 out of 21 humming birds brought here y plane from Los Angeles died. All of the birds that got here today were alive.

Bathub Used as Cage.
That they were alive was due to French's ability as an ornithological nurse. French bought the birds during a stopover at Georgetown, British Guiana. One died on the way to the boat, two within the first hour and two the first night. But there were no more fatalities. There were only 12 passengers aboard ship and two bathrooms. One bathroom was for the vice-president of the line and his wife, the other for French's party of eight and two women. French appropriated the bathtub, stretched a screen over the top and used it as a bird cage. Because the birds are susceptible to cold, he kept the temperature in the room between 90 and 95. The women didn't mind at all, he said.

Boys Harder to Handle.
The boys, tanned and laden with luggage, bows and arrows, corals, sea shells and tropical hats, were a little harder to handle. One had left his coral aboard ship; could he write the captain and have it sent? Another left his luggage on the train platform. One poked his arrows into Mrs. French's hat.

The humming and sugar birds will be placed on display in two or three days. They raise the total of the zoo's collection of humming birds to 13 and make it the best collection in any zoo. The snakes will go into cages very soon. There are four common, or true, boas and two tree boas, one a lemon-yellow, new to the zoo. They are all fine specimens, from six to eight feet long and have brilliantly colored skins.

The boys on the trip with French were Don Zahner, son of O. A. Zahner, 142 West Cedar avenue, Webster Groves; Bob Grote, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Grote, 27 Windermere place; Henry Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Woods, 435 West Jackson road, Webster Groves; Richard Frazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Frazier, 6601 Waterman avenue; Richard Kahle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton K. Kahle, Geyer and Rott roads, Kirkwood; Jimmy Harker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey M. Harker, 210 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves; and Tom Wiener, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Wiener, 4609 Pershing avenue.

French resides at 1315 West Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves. Caskie Named to I. C. C. WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Marion M. Caskie of Montgomery, Ala., was appointed today by President Roosevelt to fill the existing vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission, succeeding Patrick J. Farrell, whose term expired Jan. 1.

Orphir Shifts Search for Lusitania After New Clew on Liner's Position

Letter From Man Who Was on Lugger Near Where Ship Went Down Corroborates
S O S Message.

By GILBERT McALLISTER.
(Copyright, 1935.)

ABOARD SALVAGE SHIP ORPHIR. Aug. 16.—A new windfall clew in our search for the Lusitania came to light yesterday with receipt of a letter from J. S. Ball of Lakey, on Isle of Man, which lies off the coast of Ireland, who was aboard a lugger about a half a mile from where the torpedoed British liner went down, and assisted in the rescue work. Ball, who had been reading the newspaper accounts of our expedition, wrote the letter some days ago, and it was only after a circuitous journey that it finally reached Capt. Henry Russell aboard the Orphir.

The views of the crew aboard the fishing lugger, working so close to the liner when it was torpedoed, may prove to be the missing link in the chain of clues that will reveal the Lusitania's position.

Letter to Capt. Russell.

Here is the letter:

"Sir:

"I was about half a mile from the Lusitania when she was torpedoed.

I was fishing out of Kinsale in a

Manx lugger named the Wanderer which belongs to a Mr. Peel of the Isle of Man. We picked up two of the survivors and took them aboard.

Then we took in tow, two of the Lusitania's lifeboats in which a hundred shivering people were huddled.

"We were talking it over among ourselves, and we reckoned the Lusitania to be about 10 miles south by southwest from the old head of Kinsale in about 60 fathoms of water."

It will be recalled that the Lusitania's SOS was followed by a message "Come at once. Big list. Ten miles south Old Head Kinsale." This historic dispatch confirms Ball's letter.

Letter and Other Evidence.

Capt. Russell was greatly encouraged by this new clew, particularly as it corroborates much of the evidence of Capt. Turner, commander of the Lusitania. The Orphir's crew is inclined to believe that there is much in Ball's statement, for numerous Kinsale fishermen have told us repeatedly that the Lusitania sank much farther out than the position checked by our recent searching.

The scene of our endeavor has now been completely altered. Instead of searching the area seven and three-quarter miles south by west half west of the Old Head of Kinsale, the Orphir has now shifted its quest to a spot 10 miles south by southwest. The possibilities of the northeast section of the 12-square-mile area in which we have concentrated our efforts to date were almost exhausted.

The evidence which was received so unexpectedly today caused Capt. Russell drastically to revise his opinions, but served to confirm other evidence which has reached from time to time during the last week.

Quick to take up the new lead, the Orphir headed late yesterday for the position given by Ball.

NEW YORK HOTEL REFUSES TO ALLOW SWASTIKA DISPLAY

Says Action Is Precautionary Measure; Loses German-American Technologists' Convention.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Association of German-American Technologists announced last night it had canceled plans to hold its fifty-first annual convention at the Hotel New Yorker because of the hotel's refusal to permit display of the German flag. The convention was scheduled instead for the Hotel Astor from Aug. 31 to Sept. 2. Expressing regret at the "complications" that had arisen from its refusal to permit display of the German flag, the hotel management said:

"This decision was made entirely without prejudice as to race or nationality, but simply as a precautionary measure to preserve the property of the hotel and insure the safety of our guests."

"It is well known that display of this flag on a number of recent occasions here in New York incited riots and major disturbances and it is our anxiety to avoid a recurrence of these that brought about the decision we made in the matter."

BOY, 14, ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF DRIVING 55 MILES AN HOUR

Case Will Be Referred to Juvenile Court; Minimum Age for Drivers Is 16 Years.

A 14-year-old boy was among 39 motorists arrested yesterday in the police campaign against speeders. He was charged with driving 55 miles an hour on Watson road between Well and Lansdowne avenues.

The case will be referred to Juvenile Court. Persons under 16 years of age are not permitted by law to drive automobiles.

STATE ACTS TO FORCE PAYING OF SALES TAX

Auditor Holds Up $174,000 Due 200 in St. Louis Alleged to Be Delinquent.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16.—State Auditor Forrest Smith today announced he was holding up payment of $174,487 in accounts due nearly 200 St. Louis merchants, for supplies purchased last month in connection with unemployment relief, because these merchants had never paid the State sales tax of one-half of one per cent, or were delinquent in payment of the sales tax under tax returns filed.

Smith said most of the merchants were grocers and a few were dry goods merchants or wholesalers. He said most of the supplies were groceries furnished by the merchants on relief orders issued by the relief organization in St. Louis, or supplies purchased by the State relief organization in St. Louis.

He said the policy would be extended to the remainder of the State, as soon as his auditors could check the lists of merchants to whom payments are due from relief funds, against the list of concerns filing returns for the sales tax with the sales tax division of the State Auditor's department.

Smith estimated there was at least $200,000 in sales taxes due the State from the St. Louis merchants whose accounts were held up. He said some of these taxes had been due since the sales tax law, passed by the 1933-1934 special session of the Legislature, went into effect in January, 1934. The tax rate will be doubled, to 1 per cent, under an act passed by the 1935 Legislature, which becomes effective on Aug. 27.

LIQUOR LAW CHARGES UNDER OLD ORDINANCE DISMISSED

Two Tavern Owners Accused of Selling on Sunday, and of Disorderly Conduct Go Free.

Liquor law violation charges against two tavern owners were dismissed yesterday by Excise Commissioner Anderson because the old liquor ordinance was automatically repealed when the new ordinance became effective last Friday, and the cases were brought under the old law.

The cases were those of Miss Rose O'Donnell, owner of the Vienna Club, 814 North Kingshighway, charged with selling intoxicating liquor on Sunday, and Stephen Kreisz, proprietor of a tavern at

Hopson Tried to Influence Press by Buying Ads

spent $250,000 for newspaper advertisements in its campaign against the bill, and $146,000 for telegrams, most of which went to members of Congress. A New York law firm was retained to draft amendments, some of which the company managed to have offered in Congress.

After some questioning, Hopson recalled that "some sizeable amount" was paid to Patrick J.
Hurley, former Secretary of War, in connection with the measure.

Hopson said he felt it was "important that investors be educated to the dangers of the bill." It had been shown that A. G. E. stock, which sold for $75 a share, now is quoted at around 50 cents.

Doesn't Know Service Performed.
"Didn't you employ Mr. Hurley because of his political influence?"
asked Representative Cox (Dem.), Georgia. "Absolutely not."
"What service did he perform that was worth $25,000?" "I don't know."

"Who does know?" "Mr. Burroughs," Fred C. Burroughs, vice-president of Associated, testified before the Black committee last week that he wasn't certain what Hurley's services were.

"Did you have any investors in the Auburn (N. Y.) high school?" asked William A. Collins, committee counsel.

Hopson said no, and he didn't believe any telegrams were sent by students although high school boys were employed to obtain signatures to letters and telegrams to be sent to members of Congress.

Whether they were paid so much a name, he didn't know.

Representative Dies (Dem.), Texas, asked whether Associated arranged with owners of chain stores to have their employees wire and write Congressmen. Hopson said the company solicited the co-operation of all holding companies.

"I pointed out to them," he said, "that if this bill against the utilities went through they might be the next to walk the plank."

One holding company to which Associated appealed, he said, was the Heart newspaper chain. Simultaneously, Associated increased its advertising in the Heart papers.

The extent to which Associated has been living on the future was illustrated when Hopson said that if Associated paid dividends it would do so by issuing new securities and using the proceeds for dividend payments.

"Do you consider that sound financing?" asked Representative Cox. "I don't see why not," Hopson replied.

Telegram Shows Hurley Went to Miami to Report to Hopson.

Some new light was shed on the nature of Hurley's services when Hopson took the stand again before the Senate committee this afternoon. Although Hopson insisted that Hurley was paid $25,000 simply to make an appointment for an Associated official to testify at House committee hearings on the bill, Black produced a telegram which showed that Hurley went to Miami in February to report to Hopson on the situation in Congress with reference to the bill.

Hurley advised Associated officials not to appear. He feared the questioning to which they might be subjected.

"A Good Pep Talk."
"What he needs is a good pep talk," an associate wired Hopson.
"And when he got to Miami you gave him one," asked Black. "I certainly did."

"If you had been here last week and heard his speech from the witness stand, you'd have been proud of your pep talk," remarked Senator Schwellenbach (Dem.), Washington.

When in Miami Hopson was wanted to appear in a law suit in New York. He didn't wish to go, so his New York lawyer drew up an affidavit stating Hopson was too ill to appear and sent it to Miami where Hopson had a doctor sign it.

"I don't want to undergo any operation until I have to," Hopson remarked. This provoked a gale of laughter.

Hurley's reputation as a high-priced appointment-maker was slightly diminished when it was disclosed that he also made an appointment for Burroughs with the Securities Commission for no additional compensation beyond the $25,000.

Black asked Hopson if it was true that the whole Associated system, with its 200 operating companies scattered over 26 states, had been engaged in fighting the bill. "Just as busy as we could be and carry on the business," he replied.

Hopson said Associated withdrew its advertising from the New York Times because it published "lying distorted propaganda" against the utilities. He said the Times seemed to be under the influence of J. P.
Morgan & Co. and New York utility interests hostile to Associated.

Hopson telegraphed William Randolph Hearst, warning him against a Roosevelt dictatorship after the Supreme Court decision in the NRA case. A few days later Hearst's New York American had a leading editorial headed: "American Democracy or Dictatorship."

"Do you think your message influenced the sage of San Simon?"
asked Senator Minton (Dem.), Indiana. Hopson doubted it. On the other hand, he complained bitterly about Arthur Brisbane's column.

JUDGE PUTS OFF RULING ON TIF MINE INJUNCTION

Temporary Writ Against Strikers Remains in Force
—Big Crowd in Potosi for Hearing.

VISITING SHERIFFS GUARD COURTROOM

Workers Required to Give Names As They Are Admitted—Wives and Children Wait Outside.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

POTOSI, Mo., Aug. 16.—Visiting Sheriffs and their deputies from three neighboring counties guarded the Circuit Courtroom in the Washington County Courthouse today when, with the town full of striking tiff miners, Judge E. M. Dearing took up the employers' petition for a permanent injunction against the strikers.

After a short hearing, attended by about 300 miners, all of whom were required to give their names to watchers at the courtroom doors, Judge Dearing took the injunction petition under advisement. He said he would take it up at the term of court beginning Aug. 26, and would give notice of the exact day to the lawyers, who may file briefs

in the meantime.

He reminded the strikers and their lawyers that the temporary injunction, granted by him Aug. 2, three days before the strike was called, still remained in force. The temporary injunction forbids the three organizations to which the strikers belong, and four individual leaders, to interfere with the operations of the Fountain Farms processing plant of the National Pigments & Chemical Co., largest of the employing concerns.

Strikers Arrive With Families.
The strikers and their families trooped into Potosi today, the men in dusty overalls and the women with sunbonnets, leading and carrying children. Some came in the time-mellowed flivvers of the countryside, but the greater number stood packed into trucks, loaned by friendly merchants.

About the Courthouse, the sidewalks were lined with family groups. No parking signs, in front of the building, caused the automobiles to be left on side streets.
It appeared that of the 2600 strikers, all had come to town except a few left on the picket lines, at Fountain Farms and elsewhere.

Only Men Admitted.
Sheriff Steve Richards and his deputies had as their guests, and assistants in case of need, Sheriff
T. E. Lanham of Jefferson County, Sheriff James S. Trainer of Crawford County and Sheriff John W.
Harris of Iron County. Each was accompanied by deputies.

When Bennett referred to "the common practice of issuing injunctions," Judge Dearing commented that some persons seemed to think it very uncommon. This was a reference to Morris, as appeared when the Judge added, "I don't blame my friends the miners—there
are others."

5615-5623 DELMAR BOULEVARD

Manne's Amateur Broadcast Sat. 10:30 P. M. KWK at Manne's Music Hall.

The four strike leaders named in the temporary injunction, and in the petition for the permanent injunction, sat within the court inclosure. They are James Wright, Fred J. Polite, Alfred S. Boyer and D. B. Groves. The chief leader of the strike, Joe Morris, organizer of the American Workers' Union, who was not named in the proceedings, sat with them. As told yesterday, Judge Dearing asked Prosecuting Attorney John A. Ever-sole to issue an information charging Morris with contempt of court, for Morris' utterances in a speech Monday, but Eversole refused to act.

Judge Clears Galleries.

Judge Dearing opened the proceedings by addressing the visiting officers, praising their willingness to aid in preserving the peace.
When a few men and boys entered an unused gallery of the courtroom and stood there, the Judge ordered the gallery cleared. When the attorneys presented themselves, the Judge required Bennett, who had not been in the case previously, to present his credentials as a practitioner.

Discussion of the injunction then began, interrupted at times by the Judge's demands for order in the courtroom and outside the door.
Attorney Smith, arguing for issuance of a permanent injunction, said the presence of pickets near the company's premises constituted interference and intimidation.
Bennett followed, with the argument that there was no ground for issuance of an injunction, until actual physical damage could be shown. Judge Dearing asked him:

"Mr. Bennett, do you think anyone should be permitted to stop you from doing your legal work?"

"No, your Honor," Bennett said;

"but even in that case, I would say that any order should be based on some specific act."

Judge's Comment.

When Bennett referred to "the common practice of issuing injunctions," Judge Dearing commented
that some persons seemed to think it very uncommon. This was a reference to Morris, as appeared
when the Judge added, "I don't blame my friends the miners—there
are others."

In announcing that the case was taken under advisement, Judge Dearing asked Bennett to make clear to his clients that the temporary injunction was still in force.

After adjournment, Attorney Bennett asked Judge Dearing's leave to introduce Morris to him. Morris uttered a cheerful "Glad to meet you,"
to which the Judge replied, "I wish I could say the same." Morris, in his speech to the strikers Monday, suggested that Judge Dearing be impeached.

The strike leaders went outside and told the strikers, gathered closely about the building, that there was nothing further to wait for. Some were ordered back to the picket lines, or to strike headquarters at Old Mines; the rest dispersed with no hint of disorder.

Disension Among Strikers.
The strike, as has been told, is for an increase of $2 a ton, from $3.50 to $5.50, in the pay for tiff mined on the company's property.
The strikers say their earnings at the old rate averaged $2.50 a week.
Uneasiness and signs of faction-alism have appeared among the strikers in the last two days. At a meeting of the strike committee last night, a committee of nine working tiff miners, not including any outside organizers, was named to meet with any committee of the employers which may attempt negotiations.

The committee of nine workers met with W. F. White, a Department of Labor conciliator, this afternoon at the rectory of the 125-year-old Catholic church at Old Mines. This was the conciliator's first official contact with the strikers. He conferred yesterday with officials of the National Pigments & Chemical Co. in St. Louis. Today's meeting was to discuss terms for possible future efforts at settlement of the strike.

SPEEDER TO COPY ARTICLE ON SAFETY IN LONGHAND

Clayton Man, Given Choice by Judge, Prefers Exercise to $10 Fine and Costs.

Arthur Kehl, 7529 Parkdale avenue, Clayton, who was arrested for speeding Aug. 1, was given his choice by Police Judge Vest today of paying a fine of $10 and costs or making a written longhand copy of an article which recently appeared in a monthly magazine, depicting the horrors of accidents resulting from careless driving. Kehl chose to copy the article.

He was charged with driving 50 miles an hour on Goodfellow boulevard, between Saloma and Lena avenues. The article he was ordered to copy, "And Sudden Death," appeared in the August issue of the Readers' Digest.

Westinghouse Wage Increase.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 16.—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. announced today a 5 percent increase in its hourly wage rate, affecting 25,000 workers in 19 plants throughout the country. The statement also said the basic work week for hourly paid employees would be 40, subject to modification in individual plants.

CITY WINS IN SUIT OVER EXPRESS HIGHWAY AWARD

Motion to Quash Petition of Two Property Owners Sustained; Would Have Halted Work.

The city's motion to quash the petition of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Egan and their son, Russell, to enjoin it from taking property at the northwest corner of Taylor avenue and West Papin street for the express highway, was sustained by Circuit Judge Joynt today. The Egan, owners of the property, alleged that an award of $11,200 made by the Permanent Condemnation Commission was inadequate.

In exceptions by the owners to the commission's report, it was asserted the property was worth in excess of $22,000. Pending action the city paid the money into court and served notice for the Egan to vacate.

Denying the injunction, Judge Joynt pointed out that "many wrongs, great and small, have been perpetrated in the name of public policy," but it would seem, he continued, "a great wrong would be done the general public were the court to halt the progress on the work on the highway in question. It is imperative to public welfare that progress on such projects as this be uninterrupted by process of court."

Under the charter, the court pointed out, the city has the right after damages have been assessed and money paid into court to take possession of property condemned. The original owner may file exceptions and be heard and perhaps have a new award increasing damages, but such objections cannot retard the project for which the land was condemned, the decision held.

The express highway is to extend between Vandeventer avenue and Skinker boulevard, with the roadway depressed between Vandeventer and Kingshighway. All the property involved in the condemnation proceedings, except that owned by the Egan, has been acquired by purchase. The Egan operate a filling station on the property and also have rental income from a residence.

WITNESSES FAIL TO APPEAR; DRIVER FREED OF $300 IN FINES

City's Charges Against Henry Jenkins Dropped on Eighth Setting of Appeal.

The City's charges against Henry Jenkins, 3449 Laclede avenue, who was fined $100 for careless driving and $200 for driving while intoxicated, in Police Court were dropped for want of prosecution yesterday on the eighth setting of the appeals in Provisional Judge Thomas O'Hanlon's Court of Criminal Correction when the prosecuting witnesses failed to appear and the Sheriff announced he had been unable to find them. The charges against Jenkins grew out of an automobile accident at Compton and Chouteau avenues on Jan. 3.

Judge O'Hanlon sustained a $100 fine for careless driving and discharged a $100 fine for driving while intoxicated against Melville Weiss, 1905 Destrehan street. Weiss was fined as the result of an accident on July 4 at Lawn and Winona avenues.

A $50 fine for speeding against George Herthel, 4587 Tower Grove place, was dismissed for want of prosecution when county officers who made the arrest failed to appear in court. Herthel had been convicted of driving 70 miles an hour on Pine street between Seventh and Thirtieth streets. He had eluded the police and was arrested later by a deputy sheriff in St. Louis County.

Fifty-dollar fines for careless driving against Frank Baldwin, 2859 Benton place, and James Francis, 1819 South Spring avenue, were also dismissed.

Stench Bomb Thrown at Laundry.
A stench bomb was tossed into a doorway at a branch of the Grand Laundry, 117 North Eleventh street, last night. A. P. Goldrich, manager, attributed the attack to labor trouble. Union laundry drivers went on strike last December and have failed to reach an agreement with about 30 laundries.

OLD AGE PENSION BOARD SELECTED

Dr. R. E. Kane, Mrs. F. A. Reid and Charles Hertenstein to Help Review Cases.

Dr. R. Emmet Kane, Charles Hertenstein and Mrs. Fred A. Reid compose the unsalaried board which, after Aug. 27, is to assist the city Board of Estimate and Apportionment in passing on applications for State old-age pensions, by residents of St. Louis 70 years old or more.

The three were selected yesterday by the Board of Estimate. The State law provides for the appointment of such boards, to serve without compensation, in St. Louis and in every county. The board's duty is to "interview and classify" the applicants.

Dr. Kane, who has a legal residence at 1117 North Grand boulevard, and a home in Glendale, St. Louis County, was Mayor Dickmann's selection. He is a Democrat, an active supporter of the Dickmann administration, and served on a committee which recommended candidates for appointment to jobs in city institutions.

Hertenstein, a Republican, living at the Congress Hotel, was named by Comptroller Nolte. He was chairman of the City Efficiency Board under Mayor Kiel, and resigned after Mayor Miller's election, charging that Miller tried to dominate the board for his own purposes.

Mrs. Reid, who was said to be the selection of the entire Board of Estimate, is a Democrat, and has been active in social welfare work. She lives at 615 Clara avenue.

The board, after Aug. 27, will have an office on the first floor of the Municipal Court Building.

MAYOR OF MUSCATINE, IA, SUSPENDED FROM OFFICE

MUSCATINE, Ia., Aug. 16.—Judge D. V. Jackson yesterday suspended Mayor Herman B. Lord from office, pending hearing of a removal suit filed in District Court by five Muscatine residents.

The suit charges Lord with habitual neglect to enforce ordinances against gambling and declares he has been negligent in enforcing liquor laws.

Two of the petitioners are former police officers, discharged several months ago.

MACK SENDS WILSHIRE BACK TO HILL IN THE FINAL

"Left on Bases, Three!"—A Hit Here Would Have Defeated Giants

With the bases filled and two men down in the fourth inning of the Cards-Giants third game, Ernie Ott (running toward first in the picture) hit a grounder to Cuccinello at second. Collins, Medwick and Frisch are shown running toward second, third and home, respectively. But technically they were all "left on base" because Cuccinello threw out Orsatti to end the inning. This play followed a pop-up by Bill De Lancy with the same three men on.

CHAMPION HAAS PLAYS BURKEMO IN JUNIOR FINAL

By the Associated Press.
BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Aug. 16.—A 17-year-old former caddy who never owned a set of golf clubs until six weeks ago challenged a 19-year-old tournament veteran today for the Western junior crown.
The young challenger, Walter Burkemo of Detroit, pitted the stroke-making skill and good fortune which enabled him to score two eagles in yesterday's elimination rounds against the longer playing experience of Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, the defending champion in the 36-hole finals of the Western tourney.
The Southern boy, whose twentieth birthday will remove him from junior competition before next year's tournament rolls around, qualified with a 75, three over par, and disposed of his first four opponents in 53 holes of play.
He won his way to the top in his bracket by turning back Charles Smead, junior champion of the Chicago district, in the semifinals yesterday. The score was 5 and 4.
Burkemo, the son of a Detroit painter, was carried to an extra hole by his semi-final opponent, Billy Warren, another Detroit youth. He gave three strokes to par on the first nine and reached the turn one down because of his opponent's birdie two on the ninth.
Burkemo came from behind in par figures on the second nine, but was forced to shoot an eagle three on the eighteenth against Warren's sure birdie to square the match. His par four on the nineteenth hole won.

MARTIN HITS, STEALS, SCORES IN 9TH AS CARDS EVEN SERIES; JEROME HERMAN'S 20TH VICTORY

By J. Roy Stockton

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Jerome Herman Dean, who came to New York with a raging fever, was still very hot this afternoon. He held the Giants to three hits and made his 20th victory of the season a 1-0 shut-out that squared the series at 2-2 and lopped a slice off the New York lead to make it three games.

Dizzy was in magnificent form Ott singled off the Great Man's glove in the first inning. Joe Moore doubled in the third and Al Cuccinello singled to left in the fourth. That was the extent of the New York attack and after Cuccinello's safety Dizzy retired 16 consecutive batters to end the game.

Pepper Martin's base running was the important factor in producing the one run that was needed to give Dizzy the decision. Pepper singled to start the ninth inning and when Rothrock failed on two attempts to sacrifice and the count was worked to three and two Pepper stole second as Johnny struck out.

Frisch then bounced a single over Hal Schumacher's head, moving Martin to third and the Wild Horse of the Osage galloped home with the only run of the struggle after Medwick's long fly to George Davis.

It was a game of brilliant fielding. The Cardinals gave Jerome Herman excellent support, Rip Collins helping him in the ninth inning by racing almost to the right field foul for the dangerous Mel Ott's foul fly. Joe Moore and Dick Bartell performed spectacularly behind Schumacher to hold the Redbirds scoreless until the final frame.

U. S., Japanese Swimming Meet Starts Tomorrow

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 16.—Japanese and American swimming teams were so closely matched neither was confident today of victory in their three-day battle for world supremacy beginning tomorrow. They splashed through their final workouts today in a driving rain.

The American squad's chances of victory, especially in tomorrow's 200-meter free style, were hurt by the probable absence of Jim Gihula of Detroit, who is suffering from an ear infection.

Coach Robert Kiphuth of Yale, in charge of the American invaders, said if Gihula competed he would run the risk of permanent injury. Rather than take the chance, Kiphuth said he would keep the champion out of the water, at least tomorrow.

A week of persistent, cool rain has hampered training of both teams, but coaches reported the majority of their charges were in good condition except for the American ace, Jack Medina of Seattle and Jack Flanagan of Miami. Coach Kiphuth said their condition was "only fair."

COATES WINS 10-HOLE PLAYOFF TO CAPTURE GREENVILLE GOLF MEET

GREENVILLE, Ill., Aug. 16.—A. E. Coates of Greenville, Ill., had to travel 10 extra holes before winning the Southern Central Illinois Golf Association's tournament here yesterday from Jesse Turnbow of Centalla on the Greenville Country Club's course. The players were tied with scores of 105 after the regular 27 holes, and both shot 36 on the next nine. On the deciding tenth extra hole, Coates took a 4 and Turnbow a 5.

Eight cities participated in the meet, with Greenville's eight-man squad winning the team event. The others entered were: Vandalia, Salem, Hillsboro, Effingham, Pana, Shelbyville and Centalla. The Greenville team's score was 95 strokes up on bogey. Hillsboro was second, 58 up.

Only Two Bachelors. All of the Montreal players excepting Jimmy Ripple and Walter Brown are married men.

Tara Breaks Two World Marks in Trotting Event

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Two world records were smashed by the little filly Tara, owned by Paul Bowser of Boston and driven by Tom Berry, here yesterday. In winning the first division of the progressive purse she trotted in 2:00, a new world record for four-year-olds. She won the next two heats in 2:01 and 2:02, also establishing a new record for three heats, previously held jointly by Calumet Crusader and Tronia Britton for four-year-olds was 2:00, made by Prince Hall in 1934.

Berry also won the stake for three-year-olds with Miss Kate B. owned by W. N. Reynolds of Winslow, N. C. She broke and lost the second heat to The Saint but was best in the other two. Laurel Hanover, owned by Sul-

Obtains Coaching Job. LEXINGTON, Mo., Aug. 16.—E. Miller (Mike) Haggard, a former athletic star at Missouri Valley College, yesterday was named coach at Lexington High School to succeed Leon H. # BUDGE AND SHIELDS TO MEET IN NEWPORT TENNIS FINAL

DAVIS CUP ACE DEFEATS GRANT IN THREE SETS; PARKER ROUTED

By the Associated Press.
NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—Frank X. Shields of New York, the vacationing film player, today entered the final round of the Newport tennis tournament by defeating his doubles partner, Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, N. J., 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Bryan "Bitty" Grant, the little giant from Atlanta, was soundly trounced 8-6, 6-4, 6-1, by Don Budge, U. S. Davis Cup player from Oakland, Cal.

Bryan (Bitty) Grant, the Atlanta giant, had a court appointment with red-haired Don Budge, the Davis Cup youngster, in the other semifinal.

The exacting gallery has had but two chances to enthuse this week. The first came Wednesday when Shields gained a spectacular win over Gregory Mangin, capable Newark (N. J.) player.

The other thrill was supplied yesterday when the tiny Grant wilted Roderick Menzel of Czechoslovakia, one of Europe's most powerful players in physique as well as form, during a torrid four-set match.

Grant punished Menzel in cruel fashion as he gave him the first set, 6-4. This victory, however, took so much out of Menzel, who could easily be mistaken for a heavyweight wrestler, that he was barely able to keep his feet during the remainder of the match. Grant's sets were 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Budge qualified for the semifinals with a four-set win over Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C. Hines was superb during the first set, which he gained by an 8-6 score. Then he went into a nose-dive and before he could level out the sharp-shooting Budge had three sets to his credit, 6-2, 6-0, 6-1.

The day's doubles semifinal program called for matches involving the top-seeded Budge and Gene Mako of Los Angeles, also a Davis cupper, with Shields and Parker, and Mangin and Berkeley Bell of New York against Hines and Henry Culley of Santa Barbara, Cal.

TOMMY BRIDGES WILL BE BACK SOON AFTER INJURY TO HIS LEG

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—Tommy Bridges, righthander of the Tiger pitching staff, injured by a line drive in the Washington game yesterday, will be able to take his turn in the series with the New York Yankees, Trainer Denny Carroll assured Manager Mickey Cochrane last night.

Bridges was forced from the game yesterday when a screamer from the bat of Cecil Travis, Senator or third baseman, struck his left leg just above the knee. He recovered the ball to throw Travis out and retire the side, but Elton Hoggsett was called to finish the game.

The pitcher's leg was badly swollen last night and the imprint of the ball stitching still was on it. Carroll said three days of heat treatment and massage would make the leg "as good as new."

AMERICAN LEAGION REGIONAL TOURNEY OPENS AT AKRON, O.

AKRON, O., Aug. 16.—Three teams of youthful baseball players will clash here today and tomorrow for the American Legion junior regional championship.

The teams, champions of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, will play to decide which shall represent this region in the coming All-Eastern championship event at Charlotte, N. C.

The Middletown (O.) team will represent Ohio. Michigan's entry is the Acorns of Frank D. West, land Post No. 233, of Royal Oak. Indiana is sending the East Chicago team as its representative.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.

I NEVER saw so many tears shed in my life as the New York baseball writers let drop about the poor Giants, who are all tired out from the bitter strife, as they say, of the hot pennant race. How do they get that way? The only way I can see it is that the Giants get tired quicker than the Cardinals because Terry's got more men to get tired—23 to our 21—which gives him the decision on points.

For the life of me I can't see how them Giants has stayed out in front, with Al Cuccinello playin' second base and Bartell at shortstop. It must be that we haven't begun to beat down yet. We certainly throwed

National League Pitching Stronger Than American, Efficiency Records Show

By Herman Wecke.

Efficiency records of pitchers in the major leagues bring out some interesting facts. The statistics show that the "old guard" is more than holding its own with the recruits. The figures further show that the National League hurlers are putting out a better brand of twirling than their rivals in the American.

Two Pittsburgh flingers, a rookie and one serving his second season in the big tent, have best efficiency records. Cy Blanton, the recruit, has yielded but 3.06 earned runs each nine innings to lead the procession, while Bill Swift is next with 3.24. These records are figured on unearned, as well as earned, tallies. Blanton has yielded 62 runs in 181 innings and Swift 58 in 161. Blanton has worked in 17 complete games and Swift in nine.

Kyle Latta, who has been pitching for the White Sox since 1923, is the pacemaker in the American League. Winning 12 games and losing but five for Jimmy Dykes' surprising club, Lyons in 140 innings has been found for but 35 runs, an average of 3.51 a game. This veteran, who will be 35 years old next December, has gone the route on 14 occasions.

Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean is holding up his end for the Cardinals, giving 92 runs in 221 innings, or 3.69 a game, but Brother Paul has not been so effective, yielding an average of 4.14 markers each nine rounds. Dizzy, with a 19-7 mark, has labored in 19 complete games, while Paul, who has won 13 and lost 18, has gone the full distance but 13 times. While the brothers this year have a record of 32 victories and 17 defeats, last season at this time, it was 33-11, with Dizzy owning a 21-5 record, while Paul had 12-6. Paul, this campaign, has toiled in 187 innings and has been found for 86 runs. He needs six victories against one defeat for the remainder of the year to equal his 1934 figure, while Dizzy must capture 11 straight to tie his 30-7 mark of a year ago.

Gomes Still Efficient. One of the surprises in the American League is the showing of Vernon Gomez, of the Yankees. According to the won and lost figures, the left-hander is having a bad year, since he has won but 10 and dropped 12. But in efficiency he ranks second to Lyons, having yielded but 3.68 runs a game, while working in 177 innings. That's a better efficiency record than the one owned by Johnny Allen, who has won 11 and lost but three for Joe McCarthy, and Johnny Broaca, who has a 10-4 record for the same club. Allen's figures are 3.87 and that for Broaca 4.14.

Two veteran "comeback" twirlers are tied for third honors in the American League. They are Wes Ferrell and Lefty Grove of the Red Sox. Each has allowed 3.78 runs a game, while toiling for Joe Cronin's club. Ferrell has worked 236 innings, more than any other hurler in the majors, while he is showing the way in complete games with 22 to his credit. He has won 19 and lost 11 contests. Grove, with 14 victories and eight defeats, has gone the full distance 14 times.

Rowe Having Trouble. Following these two stars come Tommy Bridges, the ace of the Detroit staff. Bridges, winning 17 and losing seven, has allowed 3.87 tallies a contest and has worked 18 complete games. "Schoolboy" Rowe, who won 16 straight for Mickey Cochrane's pennant winners a year ago, has been found for 4.50 tallies each nine rounds. He has a won and lost record of 14-9. Bridges has pitched 202 innings, while Rowe has toiled in 199.

That Carl Hubbell, the veteran southpaw, is still the most effective of Bill Terry's Giant twirlers, is shown by the records. Hubbell, winning 16 and losing eight, while pitching 19 complete contests to the Dizzy Dean for this honor in the National League, has yielded but 3.61 runs a game, working 220 innings. Schumacher, 3.80, and Parmelee, 3.78, follow Hubbell on the New York staff.

The National League shows 11 pitchers who have yielded fewer than four runs a game, while the

WOMAN TRAVELER MISSING

Last Seen at Union Station on Return From California.
Mrs. Marie Moxley, 2841 Meramec street, asked police yesterday to search for her daughter, Grace, 28 years old, who was last seen at Union Station Monday morning at 7 o'clock when she returned from a trip to California.
Police were told Miss Moxley had stopped at the Travelers Aid Bureau at Union Station and mentioned when she left there that she was going home. Miss Moxley was described as having a dark complexion, brown hair and eyes. She is about 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 145 pounds.

FORMER RELIEF DIRECTOR
HEADS OMAHA UNIVERSITY

Rowland Haynes Succeeds Dr. W. E. Sealock, Who Killed Self After Being Dismissed.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 16.—Rowland Haynes, 57 years old, former federal Relief Administrator for Nebraska, was named president of the Municipal University of Omaha yesterday to succeed Dr. W. E. Sealock, who committed suicide after being dismissed by the board of regents.

Haynes resigned his relief post in July to join the University of Michigan faculty. He resigned the latter position to accept the presidency of Municipal University.

A native of Massachusetts, Haynes has spent 20 years in welfare work and nine in educational work. He is a graduate of Williams College.

In 1911 he became field secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Later he was appointed secretary on recreation in New York City. During the World War he served as director of the New York Camp Community Service. When this work ended in 1920 he went to Cleveland as city recreation director, and in 1927 became secretary of the University of Chicago, where he served for five years.

SMALL DAIRY OWNER ARRESTED

Cases and Bottles Carried Labels of Another Company

The owner of a small St. Louis County dairy was arrested yesterday at a market on North Sarah street when it was found that his truck was loaded with cases stamped with the name of the Pevy Dairy, and that the names of various dairies were blown in the bottles.

The dairyman said he had bought the equipment from a secondhand dealer and did not know that he was violating any law. It is a misdemeanor for one dairy to use the equipment of another.

FARMERS SEIZE U. S. MARSHAL AND STOP FARM SALE

Officer and Three Aids Manhandled in Crowd of 1000 at Plattsburg (Mo.) Courthouse.

By the Associated Press.

PLATTSBURG, Mo., Aug. 16.—Farmers who manhandled four Federal officers yesterday afternoon in forcing postponement of a foreclosure sale here, left Plattsburg in the night after talk of similar action at a sale ordered today at Maysville, 40 miles to the north.

United States Marshal Henry Dillingham, seeking to sell the 220-acre farm of Sam Devilles to satisfy a $16,000 claim of a Newark (N. J.) life insurance company, was held captive with his companions on the courthouse lawn here for three and a half hours yesterday afternoon. One thousand farmers were said to have been gathered about the Courthouse.

George Colbern, a Federal Court bailiff who accompanied Dillingham, and two other officers, E. E. Fisher and Robert Pulliam, were bruised by farmers who insisted they held no grudge against the Government but were angry at "those modern Shylocks, the loan companies."

An elderly farmer hit Colbern on the head with a cane and Colbern's trousers were torn as members of the throng took his pistol. Fisher's pistol also was taken. The other two officers were unarmed.

Assaults "Shylock Attitude."

An unidentified spokesman of the crowd, who said he represented the "Farmers' Protective Association," with a membership in the Middle West of 8000, said the plight of rural America was due to the "Shylock attitude" of money lenders since the Frazier-Lemke mortgage moratorium law was held invalid by the Supreme Court.

Devilles said to have been able to obtain a commitment of only $10,000 from the Federal Land Bank and the New Jersey company reportedly refused to accede to his attempt to reach a new agreement with it.

The foreclosure order was granted in Federal District Court in

ALABAMA'S NEW CONGRESSMAN

FRANK BOYKING.

REPRESENTATIVE from the State's first district, who won the seat made vacant by elevation of John McDuffie to the Federal bench. He based his campaign on his slogan that "love is the greatest motivating force of life."

Kansas City and the farm was advertised for sale in farm papers the last five weeks. Devilles, the spokesman said, had appealed with-out avail to President Roosevelt, the Farmers' Credit Association, members of Congress and the director of the Federal Land Bank in St. Louis, for aid in saving his property.

None of the crowd would say if the protest action was planned in advance. The spokesman said 20 Missouri counties were represented by members of the crowd, and that some Iowa farmers participated.

Prisoners Talk With Farmers.

While they were detained, Dillingham and his companions conversed with the farmers about the farm situation and the "farmers' plight." At 5 o'clock when the sale period was ended under the court order, the farmers allowed the Marshal and his men to return to their cars.

Explaining their action was "not directed at the United States Government," but at the loan companies, the spokesman made the following statement after Dillingham had been permitted to depart:

"The farmers are an honest hard working class who want to pay their obligations and protest against the action of mortgage and loan companies to dispossess them under present conditions. They have had complete crop failures in 1934 and 1935. The farmers have no ready money. This fact together with five years of economic depression has reduced the farmers' debt paying ability to nothing."

"The Federal Land Banks have not been in a position to take up many of the distress loans. Commitments made by the Federal Land Banks have been considerably lower than the amount of the indebtedness on the properties. The mortgage and loan companies have taken a Shylock attitude toward farm borrowers and are demanding their 'pound of flesh.'"

"Tells of Farmers' Demands."

"The farmers of Northwestern Missouri have unanimously demanded of Congress and the Democratic administration to pass the Frazier-Lemke refinancing bill, which would refinance farm loans at the rate of 1 1/2 per cent interest and 1 1/2 per cent of the principal a year."

"This piece of legislation has been before Congress for four years and the farmers have been denied the legislation by parliamentary procedure and political trickery."

"Every farmer in the crowd would have preferred to have had the farm debt situation relieved by legislation such as the Frazier-Lemke refinancing bill."

"In the sale at Plattsburg, the farmers were heard to say they regretted the loan companies have resorted to the United States courts to foreclose the mortgage, as this puts the United States Marshal and the farmers in an embarrassing position."

"The farmers are not a class of people to wish to interfere in any manner with the established law of the United States and the action in protesting this sale was not in any way directed at the United States Government. The protest was directed at the loan companies who are taking the attitude of a modern Shylock."

Judge Otis Recalls Grand Jury to Investigate Assault.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 16.—Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis, defying threats by farmers at Plattsburg, Mo., recalled today a Federal grand jury to investigate the assault at Plattsburg yesterday on a United States Marshal and three other Federal officials who attempted to hold a farm foreclosure sale.

Judge Otis recalled the grand jury for Aug. 26 after he had studied the report of Marshal Henry L. Dillingham, who was held prisoner in the courthouse lawn at Plattsburg by a crowd of farmers protesting against the foreclosure sale.

Several of the farmers, said Dillingham, told him to tell Judge Otis that the jurist would receive the same treatment accorded the Marshal if the Judge appeared to make a scheduled speech at Hopkins, Mo., Sunday.

Judge Otis' reply to that information was: "I'll be there."

SEEKS DAMAGES OF $5000

Laborer, Injured When Manhole Caved In, Sues City of Fulton.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., Aug. 16.—Charles A. Ross, a laborer, employed by the city of Fulton, who was injured when a manhole in which he was working June 21 caved in, filed a suit for $5000 damages against the city Thursday. Ross charged that the foreman was negligent in making the proper inspection. Mayor Frank P. Baker said Ross had never discussed the accident with him.

FINED $47 FOR THEFT OF STOVE WOOD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PARAGOULD, Ark., Aug. 16.—Herbert Johnson of Delaplaine was fined $25 and costs, amounting to $47.75, on a charge of petit larceny following a jury trial Wednesday afternoon in the court of Justice of the Peace E. S. Hetan. Deputy Sheriff A. E. Flannery testified that he concealed himself near his stove wood pile and saw Johnson and his son, Leroy, get an arm load of wood each. Young Johnson is said to have run away. Johnson is held in the Greene County jail in default of the payment of the fine.

NAZI DENOUNCES FOREIGN PRESS IN ANTI-JEW SPEECH

Julius Streicher Also As-sails Catholics in Berlin Appeal to Intensify Anti-Semitic Drive.

AMERICANS RESENT
ONE OF HIS REMARKS

Reference to Woman Member of Ambassador Dodd's Family, Who Witnessed Attack.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Aug. 16.—Julius Streicher, most ruthless of the Nazi anti-Semitic campaigners, in addresses before two mass meetings last night, assailed Jews, the foreign press, Bolshevism and the Catholic baptism of Jews. All of these, he implied, were linked with an anti-German plot.

Despite the ballyhoo that preceded the speeches of the Jew-baiting Nurnberg publisher of Der Stuermer, and which led to fear of new outbreaks, his visit was unattended by disorder.

Jews, warned by their leaders, kept to their homes, while Storm Troops and police patrolled the streets until daylight.

Remark Arouses Americans.
The only open resentment was shown by Americans, who were astounded by a direct reference to a member of the family of United States Ambassador William E. Dodd. Americans in the audience expressed the opinion the remark "would go unnoticed in diplomatic circles."

Streicher, known as the "Czar of Franconia," was vigorously outspoken in his advocacy of "steps against the racial disgrace of mixed marriages" between Jews and Aryans.

"We are proceeding into a great German future," he said, "which will again save all humanity from the Jewish race."

He spoke for two and a half hours in the Sportsplatz, and then rushed to the Tennishalle to harangue an overflow crowd, which heard the first speech through loud speakers.

Reference to American Woman.
In denouncing the foreign press reports of anti-Jewish disturbances, Streicher demanded that the press report "Lynch Justice in America."

His reference to a member of Dodd's family was made in his comment on the leading of a woman through the streets placarded "Racial Traitor."

"Present at the time this incident occurred," he said, "was, I believe, the wife of the American Ambassador, who was shocked. The American press said that in Nurnberg Jews and girls were led through the streets with placards 'racial traitor' on their breasts."

He is thought to have meant Martha Dodd, the Ambassador's daughter, who was quoted in America two years ago after a visit to Nurnberg.

Berlin Jews Apprehensive.
The Jews, who absented themselves from all public places during the rally, appeared more apprehensive today than at any time during the last month's course of terror that followed the decrees against them.

Catholics were wondering about Streicher's implications that a German girl shouldn't marry a man with a Catholic baptismal certificate lest he be a Jew and their child different from the "white German race." That admonition was given during the publisher's disparagement of the Catholic policy of "marrying different races provided they are Catholics" but discouraging marriage of Catholics and Protestants.

It was regarded as significant that none of the ranking Cabinet members or other leaders was present, although some sent representatives.

Streicher is looked on as aspiring to the directorship of the Berlin Bureau of Anti-Jewish Affairs. He also is reported to be desirous of transferring his newspaper from Nurnberg to the capital.

HOOPER ARRIVES IN CHICAGO
Says He Knows Nothing of Plans for G. O. P. Conferences.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Former President Herbert Hoover, on arrival by train today from New York en route to California, denied any knowledge of reported plans to confer with Mid-western Republican leaders during his stay here. "Any conferences are news to me," he said, adding that he had seen "the reports" in the papers.

Asked if he planned any addresses during the next few months attacking the New Deal, he said: "I have nothing in mind." He was met by his close friend, Arch Shaw, a Chicago investment broker, and was driven from the railway station in a taxicab to Shaw's office.

U. S. Envoy Describes Life In Ethiopia Before Crisis

Only Roaring of Lions Disturbed the Calm and Peace of Addis Ababa, Writes W. George Perry.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Roaring lions that awaken him mornings, hyenas that prowl through the streets by night, and the monotonous daily routine of life in Addis Ababa, are described by W. George Perry, American charge d'affaires in Ethiopia, in the "American Foreign Service Journal."

George's article, written before the Italo-Ethiopian crisis assumed its present seriousness, describes the capital as it was before war drums called the tribesmen to prepare against possible invasion by Mussolini's soldiers.

"One wakes of a morning," George writes, "to the roar, distant and muffled, of lions. They are at the Imperial Gebbi (palace), some engaged and others loitering about the stairways, and they want their breakfast. Then the lions have breakfasted, and throughout the day the only sounds are the meaningless, carefree chatter and laughter of the crowds that throng the streets, the plaintive squeal of the large brown hawks circling endlessly over the town, and the cawing of crows."

"There is something undisturbed and eternal about this mythical land that denies the existence of other where and otherwise, and it seems to reside in a faith that has become tradition. The beginnings of Ethiopia are lost in the prehistoric mists."

"The error of the foreigner has been uncomprehending impatience. The Portuguese missions and the floods of Islam's hosts shattered their lances against the Ethiopian beliefs that are as firm and vigorous today as they were when the Queen of Sheba trekked homeward from King Solomon's court, the God of Israel in her heart, and when Menelik, her son, bore home the ark of the covenant."

"Tomorrow, the routine of every day will be enacted. Caravans of coffee and hides will slowly wend their way for a few hours over mountain trails. Trade will be carried on in remote parts of the realm with salt bars as a medium of exchange. Feudal chiefs will travel on back through the streets of the capital, their rank and dignity attested by the numbers and equipment of the men-at-arms trotting alongside with their stubbed bucklers of rhinoceros hide, their spears, and their rifles."

"Great ladies, veiled to the eyes and wearing large felt hats, will ride slowly by on their mules. Many priests will walk more miles, prayer staffs in hand and the Psalms of David slung over their shoulders as a tourist would carry a camera."

"And about it all there will be no sign of haste. There will be no concern for market quotations, or for the news of the day or for the passage of time."

MATANUSKA COLONISTS HAVE GOOD POTATO AND HAY CROP

Community Gardens Neglected But Private Vegetable Patches Are Producing Well.

By the Associated Press.
PALMER, Alaska, Aug. 16.—Colonists are seeing for themselves now the crops that can be grown in the Matanuska Valley.

With the season well along, 45 acres of potatoes are doing well and smaller fields of grain are in full head, almost ready to cut. A number of colonists have individual gardens, which have produced excellent crops of vegetables.

The rainy season has interfered with the curing of wild hay, but about 100 tons has been cut and stored away. In addition, about 200 acres of oats and peas remain to be harvested.

Community gardens have turned out to be failures, more or less, partly because not enough work was done on them and partly because crows got loose and ate most of the peas and cabbages.

99 PCT. RATE FOR INSURANCE AGAINST WAR IN ETHIOPIA

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 16.—Lloyds today quoted the prohibitive rate of 99 per cent for insuring against an outbreak of war between Italy and Ethiopia before the end of the year.

The C. E. Heath Co., one of the biggest Lloyds brokers, announced: "We are not taking any further commitments. The market is full up."

WORLD SILVER PRICE STEADIER
Bar Metal Unchanged in London at 65.05 Cents an Ounce.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The United States Treasury appeared today to have the international silver price situation in hand.

In the open market in London, the price of the bar metal remained unchanged at 29 pence an ounce. Equal to 65.05 cents. The New York price for imported silver for commercial use was unchanged at 65 cents an ounce, after declining 2 cents in the last three days. Banking quarters were of the opinion that the large-scale Treasury buying of silver in the last few days, including a record-breaking total of over 25,500,000 ounces on Wednesday, had absorbed most of the immediate offerings from speculative accounts in Europe and the Far East.

BRITAIN INVITES FOUR POWERS TO NAVAL ARMS TALK

Proposes to Open Discussions with U. S., Japan, France and Italy in London "About October."

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 16.—The British Government announced today that it had invited the United States, Japan, France and Italy to a preliminary naval conference "about October."

The conference would follow bilateral discussions which Great Britain has scheduled with France, Italy and Russia. These discussions are expected to begin in September.

The purpose of the preliminary conference would be to discuss a possible agreement on naval arms limitation, the whole to be consummated at a formal conference, as provided in the Washington treaty of 1922, at some future date.

It was stated here that the date for the formal conference which, under the treaty, is supposed to be held sometime in 1935, is still "indefinite as ever." Consequently, a preliminary conference would decide the fate of the formal conference.

The invitations were issued to the various embassies here during several days beginning Aug. 3, it was reported.

It is understood that Germany and Russia later may be invited to the preliminary conference if the Washington treaty powers—named in the invitation—accept the British suggestion.

It was said the British Government felt the formal conference specified by the Washington treaty would be called by the United States, since the treaty originated with the United States. However, the United States could issue a call for the conference anywhere, including London.

The British Government tried late last year to get the three major naval powers, Great Britain, the United States and Japan, into some kind of an agreement. Representatives of the three met in London in June, went into recess, met again in October, and finally adjourned Dec. 19.

At the close of the parleys, an official communiqué stated: "The naval conversations . . . are agreed by the representatives of all three Governments to have served a useful purpose."

Despite this "useful purpose," the British Government announced it was ending its participation in the Washington Treaty—5-5-3 ratio with Japan on the short end—on Dec. 31, 1936.

London Gets Report of Revolt Headed by Veriazzi.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 16.—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Athens reported today unconfirmed rumors of a revolt in Albania headed by Chevetek Veriazzi, "who at one time entertained hope his daughter would marry King Zog."

The Exchange Telegraph Co. correspondent at Vienna reported that the assassin of Gen. Gagliardi was stated to have confessed he intended to kill King Zog.

The alleged assassin, named Taerisi, was said to have been misled by the fact that the General was riding in one of the King's automobiles at the time of the attack.

Gen. Gagliardi Assassinated; Riots in Resort Follow.
By the Associated Press.
TIRANA, Albania, Aug. 16.—The Government announced today that Brigadier-General Leon Gagliardi of the Albanian Army was assassinated yesterday while on vacation.

Subsequent riots in a resort near the capital were suppressed by officials. Military authorities are now in charge, it was announced. Numerous plotters were arrested, but the reasons for the attack on Gen. Gagliardi were not known. The War Department said the disorders were localized.

NEW POLICY ON OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING GIVEN APPROVAL

House and Senate Adopt Report on Bill to Substitute Leases for Permits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Final action on the O'Mahoney-Greener oil and gas prospecting measure was taken yesterday with adoption of the conference report on the bill by both House and Senate. The bill now goes to the White House. Senator O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, and Representative Greener (Dem.), Wyoming, sponsored the measure which substitutes for the permit system, the issuance of leases for oil and gas prospecting on public lands.

Under the existing law two-year permits are issued for such prospecting and may be renewed. Leases are granted only after discovery of oil or gas.

Under the new plan five-year leases would be issued for oil and gas prospecting on unproved lands with renewals so long as they are found in paying quantities. On proved lands leases will be issued for 10 years or so long as oil or gas is found in paying quantities.

HIGHWAY BETWEEN LAREDO AND MEXICO, D. F., CLOSED

Information Received by Automobile Club From Secretary of Mexican Association.

A warning to motorists planning to drive to Mexico, D. F., was issued yesterday by the Automobile Club of Missouri, on receipt of a letter announcing the highway had been closed by the Mexican Federal Department of Highways between Laredo and the capital.

Closing the road Aug. 4 was made necessary by the rainy season and frequent landslides in the newly excavated mountain section, according to the letter from Jose Rivera, secretary-manager of the Mexican Automobile Association. It is expected the highway will be opened in about two months.

Although the highway has been blasted through solid rock at elevations of about 8000 feet south of Monterrey, heavy rains have caused dirt slides from above. High water also has put out of commission three ferries by which rivers must be crossed in the sector about 250 miles north of Mexico, D. F.

HOUSE PASSES RAILROAD BILL

Measure Designed to Prevent Inaction by Minority Owners.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The House passed and sent to the Senate yesterday a measure intended to prevent minority shareholders from holding up the reorganization of railroads under the bankruptcy laws.

The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee reported favorably on a similar measure and it was said by a committee member that senatorial action was expected before the end of the session. The House Judiciary Committee said the bill provides that two-thirds of those of each class who vote upon a reorganization plan can bind the dissenters and those who fail to record their votes. It also provides that the course may make effective a fair and equitable plan over the dissent of such minorities.

ITALIAN REDS TRYING TO BLOCK MUSSOLINI'S MILITARY PLANS

Delegate to Moscow Meeting Says 'Ethiopian War Would Cause Wave of Discontent.'

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Aug. 16.—A movement by Communists to cripple Italian military operations in East Africa through the organized resistance of workers in Italy was described today at the comintern by Italy's delegate, M. Batista.

He said Communist agents were busily "revealing the imperialistic character" of the military plans to the Italian people and enrolling the workers in a campaign of opposition. He admitted the task was difficult because of Mussolini's rigid control of the international situation.

He predicted, however, that if war were carried out against Ethiopia, Mussolini would have to cope with a serious wave of discontent among his own people. Italy's present rule resembles martial law, he declared.

M. Erocle of Italy, winding up a long report, said Germany and Poland had an agreement to seize the Balkan states and make war on the Soviet Union. He said they would also try to establish a military bloc with Hungary and Austria.

Confirmed as Minister to Paraguay.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The Senate yesterday confirmed Findley B. Howard of Nebraska as Minister to Paraguay.

NO NEW IDEAS TO MEET INTEREST ON NEW BOND ISSUE

Mayor Invites Suggestions For Avoiding Tax Increase Which River Front Scheme May Involve.

Mayor Dickmann has not received any practical suggestions in response to his invitation a week ago for submission of helpful ideas on how to meet interest and principal charges on the proposed $7,500,000 bond issue, with which the city would pay its share of the cost of a river front memorial to Thomas Jefferson and the development of the West.

Unless some special revenue were obtained, the interest and principal would have to be paid from an increase in the annual sinking fund tax rate on general property.

Lack of special revenue to meet interest and principal is the reason about four-fifths of the $16,100,000 in city improvement bonds voted May 15, 1934, has not been sold. The city sold $3,500,000 of these bonds last Jan. 17 and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has approved the prospective sale of a second block of $3,500,000 next fall.

Three sources of special revenue were provided last year, after lengthy consideration by the Board of Aldermen and Board of Estimate, to meet the carrying charges of some of the 1934 bonds. These sources and the amounts they are expected to yield in the fiscal year 1935-36 are: Liquor taxes, $500,000; increase of 39 cents per $100 on merchants' and manufacturers' stock, and of 25 cents per $1000 on their sales, $440,000; increase of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline tax, $500,000. The original 1/2-cent gasoline tax and the original portions of the merchants' and manufacturers' taxes have continued to go into general revenue. The sinking fund portion of the gasoline tax was set aside specifically for carrying street improvement bonds of the 1934 and 1923 issues.

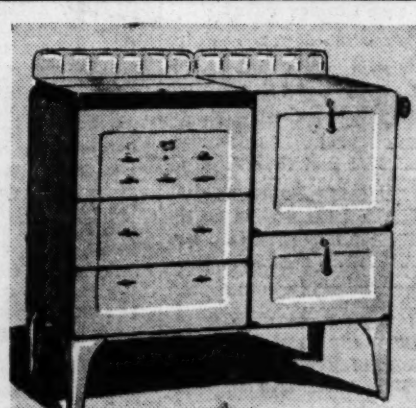

Estimated Requirements.
Budget Director Meyers has calculated that $5,709,777 would be required to pay interest and principal due in the fiscal year 1935-36 on outstanding bonds of all issues, including the anticipated issuance of a second $3,500,000 block of 1934 bonds. He has estimated revenue to pay this need at $3,970,000, including the three special sources, $4,440,000 from the general sinking fund tax and $30,000 in interest on sinking fund deposits and investments.

Already the city has paid $52,500 interest, due Aug. 1, for the first

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—THOSE who sat on the inside of the proceedings of the Senate Finance Committee when it broadened income taxes down to the $500 brackets were one of the weirdest performances of the present session.

To young Bob La Follette they were a crazy-quilt nightmare. He had consistently hammered on the idea of broadening the income tax base down to the lower figures on the theory that if more people paid income taxes they would take more interest in how the money was spent.

At no time, however, did he advocate elimination or decrease of the proposed heavier taxes on wealth.

But there developed in committee a violent drive against the House bill provision for a heavy inheritance tax. This aroused the resentment of Old Guard Republicans and Democrats alike.

Gerry.

LEADER of the opposition was Peter Goulet Gerry, descendant of Elbridge Gerry, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and the man who first evolved the system of cutting up electoral districts for the benefit of one political party—or "gerrymandering."

Peter Gerry, who inherited the wealth of his prosperous ancestors and whose wealthy wife was Edith Stuyvesant Vanderbilt, was elected to the Senate from Rhode Island in the Roosevelt landslide. Since then he has been vigorously anti-Roosevelt.

He threw all his strength against the high inheritance tax. And when the vote finally was taken, the committee secretly lined up as follows:

AGAINST THE TAX—11.

Eight Democrats—King, Utah; George, Georgia; Walsh, Massachusetts; Gore, Oklahoma; Bailey, North Carolina; Byrd, Virginia; Lomenzo, Connecticut; Gerry, Rhode Island.

Three Republicans—Metcalf, Rhode Island; Hastings, Delaware; Keyes, New Hampshire.

FOR THE TAX—8.

Six Democrats—Harrison, Mississippi; Barkley, Kentucky; Connally, Texas; Costigan, Colorado; Black, Alabama; Guffey, Pennsylvania.

Two Republicans—La Follette, Wisconsin; Capper, Kansas.

Substitution.

HAVING licked the inheritance tax by an 11 to 8 vote, Old Guard members had to do something to replace the revenue they had eliminated.

So, much to the consternation of Young Bob La Follette, they pounced upon his lower income tax plan. Not dreaming that high inheritance taxes would be eliminated, he had planned directly into their hands.

They needed $86,000,000. Young Bob's tax schedule just about filled the hole. So Gerry and his cohorts voted the rates recommended by La Follette and passed out the word that this was the handiwork of the great champion of the people.

Two days later they found they had launched a boomerang. Public indignation was so great that they hastily voted the La Follette rates out of the bill.

General Johnson's Article

More Sensible Government Spending Better Than High Taxes to Balance Budget, He Writes.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—THE Senate version of the House tax bill is estimated to raise $1.5 billion in new revenue.

Large new revenue. In view of the stark necessity for return to a sound fiscal policy, that is fine. But when you examine those schedules you will find great difficulty in answering the question: "Why should a man risk a dollar of capital to make money in business?"

If he loses it, it is gone and he is simply out of luck. If he makes any money the Government will get most of it.

Now I know a lot of people like myself who have never been able to make any money by investing in any way, and we are inclined not to care a whoop. But I don't know anybody that doesn't hope and pray for a little hope and comfort and a decent living to come back to this country. I don't know a single soul that does not regard this continued vast unemployment of ours as a personal strain and burden and the most hateful, dangerous, and menacing single aspect of our national life.

Finally, I know of nobody who knows what he is talking about, does not believe that there isn't a Chinaman's chance that we can get rid of unemployment by Government expenditure, or in any other way except to reactivate private investment for profit and thus restore business activity.

As I have remarked for nearly six months, business is being restored and is ready to go forward at an even alarming pace if certain obvious restrictions are lifted. The chief restriction is the removal of the profit incentive by taxation and otherwise.

To come down to cases, there are ## Bootlegger Hopkins.

HUSTLING Harry Hopkins is going to have a tough time finding projects suitable to all his relief clients.

In fact, he may have to go into the rum-running business. When transferring from FERA to work projects, clients are asked to set down the trade to which they are suited. Here are some of them:

Brick dropper, bootlegger, canny bird breeder, diver (sponge), diamond cutter, masseur, moss picker, horse trainer and xylophone player.

In the Family.

APPARENTLY the days when the blacksmith's daughter married the harness-maker's son are not entirely over.

Ernest B. Robinson, one of the high-powered lobbyists for Associated Gas & Electric, is reported engaged to the daughter of J. Bruce Kremer, ex-Democratic National Committeeman from Montana, and high-powered lobbyist for Public Service of New Jersey.

Two Men.

DEATH may play no favorites, but in politics there are different rules.

Last winter wealthy Warren DeLoan Robbins, Minister to Canada and close cousin of the President, died in a New York hospital after a brief illness. Within a few weeks Congress had rushed through a bill granting $10,000 to his widow, already well cared for.

In April, 1931, Leopold S. Roberts, a rural mail carrier, was shot to death near Wilmington, N. C. He was delivering mail in his official car when an ambuscade of prohibition agents on the trail of rum-runners opened fire and killed him. A bill was introduced to give his family $7500, but that was the last heard of it.

A year later another bill was introduced. Again it gathered dust. Finally Josiah Bailey, senior Senator from North Carolina, managed to force the measure through the Senate.

The other day, four years after the murder of the postal employee, the House took action. It passed the bill after slashing it to $5000.

Merry-Go-Round.

A THOUSAND dollars a night is the fee asked by a lecture bureau in booking Gen. Hugh Johnson for fall engagements. Several dates are signed up. . . . Railroad magnates, arch critics of the Government-operated Indian Waterways Corporation, suddenly have been called off by a lecture bureau.

That Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Government's barge lines, has taken all he could stand. When a railroad publication declared his lines had never earned an honest dollar, Ashburn threatened to sue for $100,000. Since then the railroad has had nothing more to say. . . . Seventy-seven-year-old Carter Glass does not hesitate to demand patronage from the Treasury, despite his daily bitter attacks upon it. . . . The Los Angeles unit of the United Fruit company has called in stray troops, put relief clients to work repairing them, and established a toy-lending library for relief children. Lending period for each toy is two weeks. . . . Iowa's hell-roaring Senator Dickinson is off on a Midwest speaking tour. By the time he gets back, Congress will have adjourned. Another absentee from the Senate floor is West Virginia's Rush Holt, who had a hernia operation in Johns Hopkins Hospital.

ENFORCING LIQUOR LAWS HARDER NOW

Excise Commissioner in Pre and Post-Prohibition Days Draws Contrasts.

Changes in standards of good conduct, drinking habits and the type of liquor merchants, brought about during the prohibition era, have made the task of enforcing liquor laws more difficult than in the days when taverns were known as saloons, Excise Commissioner Thomas L. Anderson, who held the same post 20 years ago, told the Kiwanis Club yesterday at Hotel Statler.

"But in one respect I find the work the same," Anderson said. "I find myself between Scylla and Charybdis. If I revoke a license I am crazy; if I don't I'm crooked."

Anderson explained, was not the name of a new cocktail although of suggesting the classic whiplash might aptly lend its name to some of the pink concoctions ordered by young women, who, in another day, would have found sufficient stimulation in a fudge sundae or a strawberry soda.

"Women drinking at bars was one of the problems with which I did not have to contend when I served my first term as excise commissioner in the days before prohibition," Anderson observed. "Then a woman, properly escorted, might visit a wine room, but never a saloon."

"During prohibition it became the smart thing for women to accompany men to bars. To meet their demands a tavern owner must carry an extensive assortment of liquors instead of a dozen standard brands of whiskey and a keg of beer and must have a tiled floor and chromium plated counter instead of sawdust underfoot and a mahogany bar with a brass rail.

"The old-time law-abiding saloonkeeper—the solid citizen who marched off to church each Sunday with his family—has almost passed out of existence. Many tavern keepers now are those who operated speakeasies during prohibition."

Hastily drafted State liquor laws and city ordinances together with court decisions rise to plague the excise commissioner's office, Anderson complained. His own regulation prohibiting the serving of women at bars, effective last Wednesday, was received with rejoicing by bartenders, he said, and numerous letters had been received by his office from women approving the action, although some complained it was not drastic enough since women still may be served at tables.

"But in some respects the job isn't as bad as it was 20 years ago," Anderson went on. "I don't have to act as censor for part of the September Morn type then in vogue as part of the back-bar, and I don't have to contend with the noisy nickel-in-the-slot piano."

However, half the people want to shoot me for being too severe and the other half want to poison me for being too lax."

52,000 ATTEND STATE FAIR AT SEDALIA IN ONE DAY

Speakers at Missouri U. Luncheon Praise Legislature for Increasing School's Appropriation.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 15.—Officials of the Missouri State fair estimated yesterday's attendance at 52,000. The annual luncheon of the University of Missouri is a feature.

The action of the last State General Assembly in increasing the University's financial appropriation was praised by speakers who predicted a new era of accomplishment. E. A. Trowbridge, professor of animal husbandry at the university, commended the Assembly for taking a "business view" and stressed the importance of keeping the school's physical plant up to date.

Edmond C. Coburn, St. Louis, president of the Alumni Association, said "this is the dawn of a new era for the university."

MRS. HAROLD THURMAN.

DAUGHTER OF RABBI THURMAN BECOMES BRIDE OF COUSIN

Ceremony Performed by Her Father; Husband is Head of Jewish Big Brothers.

Miss Melanie Dorothy Thurman, daughter of Rabbi Samuel Thurman of the United Hebrew Temple, was married Wednesday to Harold Thurman, a nephew of Rabbi Thurman. The marriage took place at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Thurman, at Dorchester, Mass.

The bride, who was enrolled in the summer school at Harvard University, has been associated in the educational program of the St. Louis Shriners' Hospital for Cripples. The bridegroom was graduated from Harvard University in 1925 and is president of the Jewish Big Brother Association and honorary president of the American Jewish Congress.

Rabbi Thurman returned last Saturday from a European trip to affiliate at the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Thurman will make their home in Boston after a honeymoon in New England.

SPECIAL MUNICIPAL OPERA PERFORMANCE AT MIDNIGHT

Theater to Reopen at 11:30; Cast to Have Freshly Cooked Meal Between Shows.

The Municipal Theater, following the regular performance of "Roberta" tonight, will be reopened at 11:30 o'clock for the special performance which will start at midnight. The midnight show will take the place of the Monday performance which was rained out. At each of the three performances since then there have been capacity crowds. Last night's attendance was estimated at 13,500, with 3200 standing.

Those who will attend the late show tonight have been asked not to arrive before 11:30 so that the first audience will have an opportunity to leave the theater and clear the parking space.

Arrangements have been made to provide a freshly cooked meal between shows for the 300 principals, members of the chorus, musicians, stage hands and other employees. A crew of workers meantime will clear the auditorium of cushions, pop bottles and refuse.

Seats are available for the special presentation, the management announced. They may be purchased at the Arcade Building box office until 5 p. m. and at the theater after 7 p. m.

WILLIAM C. KILPER DIES

Typesetting Company Head, 64, Succumbs in Colorado.

William C. Kilper, president of the Kilper Typesetting Co., which he founded in 1905, died last Tuesday in Colorado Springs, Colo., after a long illness. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Kilper, who resided at 5618 Idaho avenue, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sophia Kilper, and seven children. Funeral services will be held at the Gebken Chapel tomorrow with burial in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEETING

Eric H. Hansen, Managing Director, Agrees to Renew Contract.

Eric H. Hansen, managing director of the Humane Society of Missouri since 1931, yesterday agreed to renew his contract as managing head of the society at the request of the directors' meeting at Hotel Statler. His present contract expires Sept. 1.

Mrs. George W. Fieksen, a director, reported on her recent inspection tour of Eastern humane organizations. One society in Brooklyn, she stated, has 50 employees and handles more than 500 animals daily.

6000 DELINQUENT HOLC LOANS IN STATE

Approximately 6000 Missourians who have refinanced mortgages on their homes through long-term, low interest loans from the Home Owner's Loan Corporation are 120 days delinquent in their payments, Grover C. Vandover, State HOLC manager, said today.

Letters urging the mortgagors to appear and explain their delinquency had sent 88 per cent of them to the four district offices, he said. Eighteen field workers are visiting the remaining 720 who failed to acknowledge the letters.

Most of the delinquent mortgagors have told HOLC officials that their income has been less than expected or that other immediate needs had arisen. If they convince investigators of their good faith, time extensions are granted or payments are temporarily reduced, according to Vandover.

"A very small number are 'dead-beats,' who frankly admit they do not intend to pay," Vandover said. "These persons get little quarter from us. The loans were of an emergency character, saving a great many homes. They are going to be collected," he said. There have been six or seven foreclosures in Missouri.

The agency has lent more than $70,000,000 to 22,000 persons since October, 1933. Of that number 10,000 are residents of St. Louis or St. Louis County. The loans are to be repaid over a 15-year period, with monthly payments of $7.97 for each $1000 borrowed.

The most difficult cases of delinquency to adjust, Vandover said, are those in which home owners are old persons with no earning capacity or other source of income. For those, as well as for others who cannot repay the loan, HOLC has suggested these courses: renting the property and moving to cheaper quarters or selling the home.

Since July 15, when the activity against failure to pay began, the volume of payment had been satisfactory, he said. When the making of new loans ceases—about 80 are being made each week—other HOLC employees will be released for investigation of the delinquent mortgagors.

MRS. ISABEL CHOUTEAU HEALY DIES AT WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.

Former St. Louisan and Descendant of Auguste-Chouteau Succumbs at 78.

Mrs. Isabel Chouteau Healy, a former St. Louisan and descendant of Auguste Chouteau, one of the founders of St. Louis, died yesterday at her home at White Plains, N. Y., following an illness of several months. She was 78 years old.

She was born in St. Louis but had not resided here since her marriage. She was the daughter of Edward Chouteau, a grandson of Auguste Chouteau, and Mrs. Elizabeth Christy Chouteau. Her husband, Charles Healy, was a New York hardware merchant for many years. He died in 1916. She was a sister of Mrs. Howard Benoist, 4931 Pershing avenue, and Miss Eugenia Chouteau, 4927 Maryland avenue.

Also surviving are three sons, Charles E. and Francis Healy of White Plains, and Virgil Healy of Scarsdale, N. Y. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at White Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Melton will arrive in St. Louis Monday to spend weeks with Mrs. Melton's father, W. O. Pennell, 303 Oakwood avenue, Webster Groves, and her brother, Stanley Pennell. Mrs. Melton was the former Miss Dorothy Pennell.

Mr. and Mrs. Melton, who have been living in New Haven, Conn., where Mr. Melton was a teacher of psychology at Yale University, will move to Columbia this fall. Mr. Melton will teach at the University of Missouri.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Howe, 7012 Kingsbury boulevard, and their daughters, Miss Martha and Miss Rachel, will leave tomorrow for a motor trip in the East and in Canada. Mrs. Martha Howe, who was graduated from Hooper Hall in June, will leave St. Louis Sept. 15 for Aurora, N. Y., where she will enter Wells College.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS SALLIE VANDEVENTER MORRIT, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Campbell Morfit, 5531 Clemens avenue, yesterday decided to join the ranks of next season's debutantes. Plans for her party will be deferred until her return from Dayton, O., where she will go next week to be the guest of Miss Sue Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dwight Smith, who visited her here last season.

Miss Morfit is a graduate of Mary Institute, class of 1934. Miss Smith is a step-sister of Robert Emmett Funsten III, who married Miss Virginia Lee Funsten about two months ago. Mr. and Mrs. Funsten recently returned from their honeymoon in Honolulu, and are making their home at the Park Plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Kiplinger, 5706 Cabanne avenue, have gone to Cleveland to spend two weeks with Mr. Kiplinger's mother.

Dr. Roland M. Klemme of the Oxford apartments has joined Mrs. Klemme and her son, Charles Rayhill, in Santa Monica, Cal. They have been entertained at several parties, among them dinners given by members of the motion picture colony—Warren William, Mrs. Leslie Carter and Juan Romero, who has "Falcon Lair" the home of the late Rudolph Valentino.

Mr. and Mrs. William King Gardner have returned to their home on upper Ladue road after spending several weeks at the residence of Mr. Gardner's mother, Mrs. Frederick D. Gardner, 4508 West Pine boulevard. Their St. Louis County home has been remodeled during their absence.

Mrs. W. C. Gaylor, 7025 Northmoor, and her daughters, Jane and Nancy, have returned from a visit of five weeks at Pentwater, Mich.

Invitations were received yesterday for the wedding of Miss Mary Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Miller, 649 Locksley place, Webster Groves, and Louis Kenneth Beasley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beasley, to take place Tuesday night, Sept. 3, at 8 o'clock, at the University Methodist Episcopal Church.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Dr. John A. Tillema, professor of political science at Washington University and Ruth M. Kendall of Cambridge, Mass. The wedding will take place sometime this month. Dr. Tillema met his prospective bride a year ago while attending the Harvard University School of Law.

Dr. Tillema received his Ph. D. degree from Washington University and Brookings in Washington. He is a graduate of the Harvard University School of Law, the University of Michigan and George Washington University.

Mrs. W. O. Julius, 625 South Skinner boulevard, and Miss Elberta Julius, are guests at the St. Regis in New York.

The engagement of Miss Violet Anne Corcoran, 6520 Morganford road, and Kenneth W. Doehring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Doehring, 3541 Minnesota avenue, was announced Tuesday night at a dinner party given at Meadowbrook Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. Corcoran.

Owen D. Young Guest of President. WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co., was a luncheon guest of President Roosevelt yesterday. The conversation was reported to have related principally to the national youth administration. Young said he was interested.

Charles R. Snider Dies. Charles R. Snider, for 25 years editor and publisher of the Missouri Freeman, died Aug. 5 in Glendale, Cal., where he had resided since 1920. He was 73 years old.

METHODISTS APPROVE NEW MERGER PLAN

Proposed! Favored by Representatives; Now Up to Three Conferences.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Representatives of the three leading branches of Methodism voted approval today of a plan to merge the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church into one body.

To be effective, the plan must next be ratified by the general conferences of the three churches. It will be presented to the Northern and Southern units of the Methodist Episcopal Church next May and to the Methodist Protestant Church conference in 1938.

The approved plan involved approximately 8,000,000 members and more than a billion dollars in church property. The merged church would become the largest Protestant denomination in the United States.

The commissioners voted to merge the three bodies under one title: "The Methodist Church." At the conclusion of the conference, a statement was issued saying in part:

"The plan, which will not become operative until ratified by vote of the several churches in general and annual conferences, a process requiring at least six years, involves reorganization."

"There will be one general conference, six jurisdictional conferences in the United States, several central conferences outside the United States, and a council of bishops, elected by the several jurisdictions and central conferences."

"The existing Negro annual conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church are assembled in a single jurisdiction of equal power with the others, including election of bishops and full representation in the general conference."

"If and when ratified, a uniting conference will meet within a year to formulate rules and regulations and write the discipline of the Methodist Church."

"In the uniting conference the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South will each have 400 representatives and the Methodist Protestant Church will have 100."

A tribunal for the proposed new Methodist Church held the attention of denominational leaders today. It is one of the major problems to be settled by the joint commission of the three branches before it can approve a constitution for the united church.

The Southern faction has a "judiciary council" with power to pass on the constitutionality of legislation of the church bodies. In the North, the only judicial unit is a committee of the general conference.

New Pastor for Christian Church. The Rev. E. C. Friesen has been appointed pastor of Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 1215 Union boulevard, to succeed the Rev. F. L. Squires, who has joined the staff of the field secretary of the church. The Rev. Mr. Friesen will take charge Sunday. Before going to Akron, O., five years ago, he was pastor of an East St. Louis church.

Charles R. Snider Dies. Charles R. Snider, for 25 years editor and publisher of the Missouri Freeman, died Aug. 5 in Glendale, Cal., where he had resided since 1920. He was 73 years old.

ART COLLECTOR AGREES TO RETURN RING TO WOMAN

Mrs. Dorothy Farwell Kolb, Former St. Louisan, Said Washington Porter II, Art Collector, Agreed in Court Yesterday to Return a $2000 Diamond Ring to Mrs. Dorothy Farwell Kolb, Former President of the Provident Chemical Works in St. Louis, After Attorneys for Mrs. Kolb Sought to Impound the Ring Pending Disposition of Her Suit for the Ring and $8000 Cash, Which She Said She Gave Porter.

Mrs. Kolb agreed to return to Porter, in exchange for the diamond ring, two other rings, which she described as of small value. Superior Judge Williams had issued an injunction July 29, tying up Porter's assets, but Louis L. Cohen, attorney for Mrs. Kolb, told the court she feared the ring might "fall into the hands of a creditor." When the court indicated it would order all three rings impounded, Porter's attorney agreed to make the exchange without a court order.

Mrs. Kolb's suit alleged the art collector courted her for her money, induced her to leave her husband, obtained the ring "as evidence of her love," and borrowed the $8000. She also alleged Porter agreed to marry her if she would obtain a divorce. A reconciliation with her husband was later effected, she said. Mrs. Kolb, who formerly lived in St. Louis, was the widow of Fred A. Farwell, formerly of St. Louis, who became president of the Ground Gripper Shoe Co. of Boston. He died in 1928.

Low Bid on Arkansas Road Project.

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark., Aug. 16.—Out of the eight bids submitted to the Arkansas Highway Department at Little Rock Wednesday on the project to widen Highway 70 between West Memphis and the Harahan Viaduct, leading into Memphis, the L. O. Branton company was apparently the low bidder. The company's bid was $179,980. Contract calls for straightening the hazardous curve, which has resulted in scores of deaths since it was constructed, and widening the present highway into a four-lane road.

NO NEW IDEAS TO MEET INTEREST ON NEW BOND ISSUE

half year on the first $3,500,000 block of the 1934 bonds, which bore interest at 3 per cent.

Appropriations of $2,423,021 have been made by ordinance out of the funds available from the first sale. As of last Monday, expenditures amounted to $921,064, as follows: Toward completion of the large arena section of Municipal Auditorium, $705,276. This has been the principal work done so far under the 1934 bond issue, which was advocated by the city administration as a means of providing employment. About 250 workmen are engaged on the arena job, representing about the average of employment since work was started April 16.

Toward completing various details of Civil Courts Building, $51,301, for plans. Work began last Tuesday, with about 25 men, under a $98,875 contract for stone steps for this structure.

For land for sites of a new City Hospital, $128,211. A psychopathic hospital adjoining City Hospital, $128,211.

For plans for Southern Arsenal Relief Sewer, $23,101.

For land at Twelfth and Lynch streets and on Lucas avenue, east of Compton avenue, as sites for new police stations, $16,361.

For land forming part of the right-of-way of the new express highway, $71,140.

Bonds Sold.

Bonds were authorized and sold as follows:

Completing auditorium, $900,000, voted and sold.

Completing Civil Courts Building, $800,000, voted, $125,000 sold.

Developing Memorial Plaza, $1,900,000, voted, $75,000 sold.

Developing Union Station Plaza, $100,000, voted, $25,000 sold.

Hospital and institutional facilities, $7,000,000, voted, $380,000 sold.

Sewer construction, $1,500,000, voted, $500,000 sold.

Grade crossing elimination, $1,000,000, voted, but none sold because of uncertainty of arrangements with the railroads and the Federal Government for carrying out the work.

Erection or purchase of a National Guard armory for the 138th Infantry, $1,000,000, voted, $20,000 sold.

Establishment of five new police stations, $700,000, voted, $350,000 sold.

Revolving fund to facilitate street widenings, $1,000,000, voted, and sold.

Erection of two Negro community centers, $400,000, voted, $125,000 sold.

Sales Authorized.

The Board of Public Service furnished the Board of Estimate this month with data for the proposed sale of a second block of the bonds. On this basis, the Board of Estimate, on Aug. 5, authorized a sale as follows: Courthouse, $250,000;

Memorial Plaza, $1,000,000; hospitals, $1,200,000; sewers, $375,000; armory, $200,000; police stations, $350,000; community centers, $75,000.

If this sale is carried out, there would still remain unsold $9,100,000 in bonds of the 1934 issue, divided as follows: Courthouse, $250,000; Memorial Plaza, $525,000; Union Station Plaza, $75,000; hospitals, $370,000; sewers, $825,000; entire grade crossing item, $1,000,000; armory, $780,000; community centers, $200,000.

Comptroller Nolte, when seen yesterday by the Post-Dispatch, reported, was unwilling to discuss the financial situation presented by the 1934 bond issue beyond saying that no date had been set for the second sale. He desired to learn first what success the city might have in selling the first $1,800,000 of a $3,500,000 public relief bond issue voted last April.

Banking houses recently failed to bid on the relief bonds because of an opinion by Attorney-General McKittrick in a State case that all bonds of Missouri and its subdivisions could be called at will, regardless of specified maturities. The relief bonds interest and principal of which will be paid from Municipal Bridge tolls, will be offered for sale again Aug. 27, with the reservation that if no bids are received they may be sold privately. Nolte said he had been assured a private sale could be made, if necessary.

Nolte Opposed 1934 Issue.

The Comptroller was opposed to the 1934 bond issue because he was unwilling to support any further bonded indebtedness unless ample provision was made in the sinking fund tax rate to meet interest and principal requirements of bonds already outstanding. He was afraid the sinking fund tax rate, which has been 39 cents on the $100 valuation for increased earnings, would have to be levied to meet existing obligations. However, the Board of Estimate avoided an increase in this rate by authorizing $1,568,000 in refunding bonds, which were sold last Jan. 17.

The vote on the 11 bond propositions, which varied little on the separate items, averaged about 112,000 "yes" and 28,000 "no," with a surplus of about 19,000 more votes than the required two-thirds majority.

PWA grants aggregating $5,290,000 were allotted to the city in connection with nine of the 11 bond items, but none of this money has been paid to the city so far. No grant was sought in connection with the street revolving fund, as this did not call for construction, and the city withdrew an application in the grade crossing item. Grants were divided as follows: Auditorium and courthouse, $552,500; Memorial and Union Station plazas, $838,000; hospitals, $222,000; sewers, $720,000; armory, $347,500; police stations, $191,000; community centers, $126,000.

AUTO WORKER TELLS HOW HE SAVED 20 IN FLOOD

Number of Fatalities in Italian inundation Estimated at 300; Many Families Wiped Out.

OVADA, Italy, Aug. 16.—Survivors of the flood that devastated this town and its environs with the collapse of a hydroelectric dam Tuesday, devoted themselves today to the task of burying the dead.

Sixty bodies were extricated from the mud and debris yesterday, but the task of identification proceeded slowly. Many families were entirely wiped out.

Provincial authorities estimated the death total at about 300, possibly more. It was announced that Premier Mussolini personally contributed 50,000 lire (about $4000) for relief work.

Tristano Gionna, an automobile mechanic, recounted his feat of saving 20 persons from death.

"When the water from the mountain rushed down upon us, I was in the village of Borgo," said Gionna. "I managed to escape with some others to the roof of a house. From there we saw a number of people clinging to protruding stones of a wall along the main street."

"I managed to get hold of some sheets on the top floor of the house where we were. Those with me made a rope from the sheets and tied it to me."

"I jumped into the flood and managed to cross the street, which was a torrent. One by one, I got hold of the people who were clinging to the wall. Each time friends hauled me back to the roof with a person in my arms."

To Refinance Caruthersville Bonds.
CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 16.—A newly passed ordinance authorizes the Mayor and Finance Committee of the council to close a deal with a Memphis firm for refinancing certain outstanding bonds obligating some of which are understood to be due August. The contract will give the city longer time to pay off improvement bond issue, thus reducing the annual payments.

Tall Cool Drinks Serve To Defy Summer Languor

Tinkle of Ice Against Glass and Frosty, Colorful Drinks Have Good Effect on Jaded Appetites.

The most refreshing sound and sight in summer are undoubtedly the thin tinkle of ice against glass and colorful drinks, frost-beaded and standing in neat rows. The psychological effect of cooling drinks is grand. Heat frayed nerves are miraculously and jaded appetites seem to come into their own again.

Fruit juices have always been standard foundations for cool drinks, with oranges, lemons or limes leading. Now every fruit has possibilities and tea and coffee, the latter plus a dash of bitters are helpful additions to the summer drink menu.

Syrup Foundation.
Some hostesses prefer a syrup foundation for summer drinks. One cup of sugar and two cups of water may be boiled together for 10 minutes and cooled. This may be stored in the icebox and used to sweeten drinks according to taste.

It goes without saying that a cool drink unadorned is like soup without salt. A perky sprig of mint, maraschino cherries or minted cherries, slices of lemon or orange are good, but for something out of the ordinary try cubes of

SWEET ACCOMPANIMENT MAKES GUESTS SING A CHORUS OF PRAISE

FOR those tall cool drinks try sweet accompaniment and your guests will sing a chorus of praises.

Chocolate Wafers.
Six eggs.
One ounce powdered French chocolate.

Four tablespoons flour.
Ten tablespoons powdered sugar.

Beat the yolks of eggs and the sugar to a cream. Add the chocolate and mix thoroughly, then add flour alternately with the stiffly beaten whites. Add the flavoring and drop by small spoonfuls on a baking sheet covered with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven until done.

watermelon, honey dew or cantaloupe. Your guests will be sure to enjoy them.

Serve Crisp Cookies.
What to serve with summer drinks is another question so often asked by summer hostesses. Thin crisp cookies are always good, but for superlative service try those paper thin wafers. Some may be rolled, others served in thin rounds. Icebox cookies are always good with refreshing drinks. They have the added advantage of cutting down summer labor since they may be kept in the icebox, a batch sliced off and baked at a moment's notice.

"Floats" are great favorites with children and mean simply a fruit or milk drink improved by adding a scoop of ice cream or sherbet of some kind. The "float" is an excellent pick-up and meets all requirements for an afternoon of heat that is slowly doing one under. It is quick and refreshing energy and a drink of this kind all around for mother and children alike is bound to improve tempers.

Spiced Tea.

Pour six cups boiling water over one teaspoon whole allspice, one teaspoon whole cloves and one small piece of cinnamon. Cover and let boil for about three minutes. Add six tablespoons tea and allow to steep for three minutes. Strain, cool and add six tablespoons orange juice, four tablespoons lemon juice and sweeten with sugar syrup. Serve with cracked ice and garnish with a sprig of mint and a cherry.

Orange Cocktail.
One-quarter cup lemon juice.
One-half cup orange juice.
One-quarter cup sugar.
Few grains of salt.
One cup ginger ale or carbonated water.

Combine all ingredients and pour over cracked ice in cocktail glasses. Garnish with a minted cherry.

Mint Shrub.
Twelve sprigs mint.
One-quarter cup sugar.
One cup shaved ice.
One cup raspberry syrup.
Two tablespoons mild vinegar.
One quart ice water.

Chop the mint fine, add the sugar and ice and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add the remaining ingredients and serve at once.

Grape Cup.
One cup hot water.
One tablespoon grated orange peel.
One-half tablespoon grated lemon peel.
One cup sugar.

Two cups grape juice.
Juice of two lemons.
Juice of one orange.
Two cups cold water.
Pour the hot water over the grated rinds and sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, then let stand covered until cold. Strain and mix with the fruit juices and cold water. Chill thoroughly and serve with ice cubes and a sprig of mint in each glass.

Grapefruit Freeze.
First make a grapefruit ice according to directions below. To serve, place a scoop or large tablespoon of the ice in tall glass and fill with charged water or gingerale; serve at once with both spoon and straw.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three-quarters cup white syrup.
One and three-quarters cups water.
Six tablespoons lemon juice.
One large can grapefruit (pulp and juice).
Cook sugar, syrup and one cup of water to soft ball stage (240 degrees F.). Add lemon juice and water; cool. Cut grapefruit segments into small pieces, add to cooled syrup and freeze until firm. Makes two quarts.

Quick Chill Con Carne.
Brown one pound ground beef in skillet with one tablespoon butter and one chopped onion. Add one can kidney beans and stir for several minutes. Pour one cup tomato soup over this, then add one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon chili powder. Simmer for 15 to 25 minutes. The chili powder may be omitted, if desired, and a dash of pepper substituted. Serve with boiled or baked potatoes or with boiled rice.

SERVE WAFERS WITH TALL COOL DRINKS

Thin Nibbles Are Most Welcome During Hot Weather Appetite Slump.

What to serve with those tall cool drinks on hot summer afternoons is a problem that has confronted many of us. Most of us cut down on food during the hot weather and anything that smacks of an extra meal is more or less taboo.

Appetizers Good.
Appetizers and canapés have their places but to our mind the answer to the question is wafers, whose thin delicious bits of cookies that the French people make to perfection. A wafer is a bit more ethereal than a cookie, in fact it is not more than just a nibble.

Wafers are not difficult to make and their thin crispness goes so admirably with refreshing summer drinks. Bake them in a moderate oven until they turn color. The plain wafers may be colored with food coloring if you like colored cookies.

Lemon Wafers.
Six eggs.
One lemon, juice and rind.

Four tablespoons flour.
One cup powdered sugar.
Beat the eggs and sugar to creaminess. Add gradually the flour, juice and rind of lemon. Beat well and drop by small spoonfuls on a baking sheet that has been covered with waxed paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) until golden.

Cream Wafers.
Four tablespoons grated lemon rind.
Four tablespoons orange marmalade.
Four tablespoons apricot marmalade.
Four egg whites.
Powdered sugar.

Mix the fruits and lemon peel thoroughly and add three tablespoons powdered sugar and the stiffly-beaten whites of eggs. Drop by small spoonfuls on a baking sheet that has been lined with waxed paper and bake in a very slow oven until they are dry.

One-fourth cup butter.
One and one-half cup powdered sugar.
One-fourth cup milk.
Seven-eighths cup flour.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Cream the butter and add the sugar gradually. Then, drop by drop, add the milk, then the flour and flavoring. Spread very thinly on an inverted square cake pan which has been chilled. Mark off in three-inch squares and bake in a very moderate oven (325 degrees) until delicately browned. Cut the square apart and roll each square into a tubular shape. If the squares become too brittle to roll place in the oven to soften.

Cream Wafers.
One-third cup shortening.
One cup sugar.
Two eggs.

Two-half cup thin cream.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon vanilla extract.
Flour enough to roll.
Cream the shortening, add the sugar, beaten eggs, milk and flavoring. Sift together salt, baking powder and about two cups of flour. Add flour to first mixture, adding more flour if dough cannot be handled. Chill, roll thin, cut out and bake in a moderate oven until lightly colored.

FISH SALAD MAKES A GOOD AND TASTY SUMMER SPECIALTY

Fish salads are ever popular and the wise hostess will set aside one that can be her summer specialty. The recipe given below is of the "heartier" type that makes a splendid luncheon dish.

Striped Salad.
One cup of flaked cooked fish.
One head of lettuce.
One and one-half cups potato salad.

Mayonnaise.
One carrot.
One-half onion, minced.
One lemon.
Salt and pepper to taste.

One tablespoon minced parsley.
Marinate the fish flakes and set in refrigerator to cool. Make some potato salad into which the minced onion has been mixed. Allow the potato salad to cool in the refrigerator. When both the fish and potato salad are cold remove from refrigerator. Keep them separate. Mix into both the fish and potato salad, separately, a little mayonnaise. Then place, in alternate rows, on a lettuce-lined platter, the fish and the salad. Encircle these alternate rows with more lettuce or watercress. Grate a carrot finely over the fish rows and sprinkle minced parsley over the potato salad. At the ends of each row, place one-half a slice of lemon with round edges toward outer rim of platter.

Deep Fat Frying.
Fish that is to be fried in deep hot fat requires a heat of 370 degrees Fahrenheit, and 3 to 4 minutes' time; depending upon size and thickness. Meat, 350 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit; heat; time, 5 to 8 minutes. French fried potatoes, 350 degrees Fahrenheit; time, 5 minutes or until browned and tender. Croquettes, fish balls, etc., 320 degrees Fahrenheit; time, 1 minute or until delicately browned. Fried cakes, doughnuts, etc., 350 to 370 degrees Fahrenheit; time 2 to 5 minutes.

Constipation*

An enthusiastic and voluntary letter: "We have a daughter who has been troubled all her life with constipation. About three months ago, we discovered ALL-BRAN. From that day to now we have not known her any form of laxative."

"We have become 'ALL-BRAN' users, and now it is a part of our daily diet."—Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Pope, 562 Maple Ave., Elmira, N. Y.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

MAYONNAISE MAY MASK
SALAD OR BE LARGE
FACTOR IN IT

MAYONNAISE may be either a dressing that masks the salad or a large factor in the salad. This one makes a salad:

Cucumber Mayonnaise.
One-fourth cup finely diced cucumber.
One-fourth cup diced pimiento.
One-half cup sour cream.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
Slightly whip the sour cream and fold in the mayonnaise. Add the cucumber and pimiento and serve on crisp greens. This amount makes one and one-third cups mayonnaise.

For Crisp Bacon.

When frying bacon, do not let the meat simmer in quantities of fat, but draw off the fat as it gathers. This makes for crispness and gives the bacon a more delicate flavor.

APPETIZERS KEYNOTE OF ENTERTAINING

Serve Them Thin Toast or on Gadgets Which Can Be Purchased Now.

Informality is the keynote of summer entertaining and nothing starts off the garden supper, the porch buffet spread or the guest dinner like some cool drinks served with plenty of nippy appetizers. Summer sausages, dried beef, cured ham, cheese and some of the canned meat products make an excellent foundation for these tasty bites to go with the chilled fruit juice or tomato cocktails.

Two Types of Appetizers.

There are two general types of appetizers, those which use a crispy cracker, potato chips or tiny squares of bread as their foundation, and those that are impaled on a toothpick to make them easier to handle.

Many Gadgets Now.

Right now you can purchase all sorts of tricky little gadgets for serving the toothpick variety of appetizer. There are little wooden pigs, metal swans and many others made for just this service which may be used alone or set into the center of a large plate and surrounded with some spread appetizers. For variety a whole grapefruit or orange is sometimes used as a centerpiece and the toothpicks stuck into the rind, almost as close as you can put them.

For preparing these tiny toothpick appetizers you may make the simplest variety imaginable by cutting tiny triangular wedges of salami or thuringer and using them just "as is"—or you may slice sausages into one-half inch slices and impale on the picks with a slice of olive or radish between two slices of sausage. There are the more elaborate cheese balls rolled in nuts or chipped beef, deviled ham balls rolled in grated nippy cheese, or big juicy olives wrapped in bacon or broiled to crispness.

Potato Chips or Toast. For the spread variety use big flaky potato chips, or tiny triangles of toast or some of these thin crackers for your foundation. Top each with a tiny ball of ham or buffet sandwich spread or a rosette of cream cheese mixed with Roquefort or deviled ham. Dried beef rolls on toast squares are dainty morsels, too. A thin crisp strip of toast buttered with lemon butter and topped with a strip of Vienna sausage just smaller than the bread makes another simply made appetizer.

Any of the above suggestions are easy and quick to prepare, yet add just that spicy touch needed for a send-off to a delicious dinner.

Potato Crisps.

Mix cold deviled ham or liver with finely chopped celery and olives. Shade into tiny balls about the size of a small marble. Select large even potato chips or lattice potatoes and press one meat ball onto each chip. Serve with other assorted appetizers.

Canape Appetizers.

Cut white or whole wheat bread in slices. Spread with butter seasoned with a little lemon juice. Cut the buttered bread into various shapes with a small biscuit cutter or a sharp knife. Oblongs, half moons, circles, diamond shaped or squares are possible shapes. Add a layer of meat spread made of ground ham or corned beef mixed with salad dressing.

Top with a slice of olive, strip of pepper or slice of hard-cooked egg. Each canape should be about the size of two good bites. The edges of each canape may be decorated with egg yolk put through a sieve or soft cheese put through a pastry tube.

Beef-Cheese Balls.

Make tiny balls of chilled cream cheese. Chop water thin dried beef into tiny pieces and roll each ball in the beef, pressing the meat into the cheese. Impale on toothpicks and serve cold.

Sausage Tid-Bits.

Cut small sausages into lengthwise strips. Cut rectangles of thin toast just a little larger than the sausage. Spread with butter well seasoned with lemon juice and lay a strip of Vienna sausage on top. Lay a thin strip of pimiento over the center of each.

FILLED CALAWO SALAD

One large calawo.
Lemon juice.
Salt.
One and one-fourth packages cream cheese.
One teaspoon finely cut green onion.

Paprika.
Lettuce or endive for garnish.
French dressing or mayonnaise.
Cut calawo into halves lengthwise, remove seed and peel. Scoop out a portion of center, leaving sides whole. Sprinkle inside and out with lemon juice and salt. Mash or dice scooped out portion, combine with cream cheese, green onion and salt to taste, and blend well; use to fill centers of calawo halves. Sprinkle tops with paprika and press halves together. Wrap in wax paper and chill thoroughly. Slice in rounds and serve on garnished salad plates. Serve French dressing or mayonnaise separately. Serves four.

CHEESE FRUIT SALAD

Two cups creamed cottage cheese.
One cup diced pineapple.
One-half cup maraschino cherries, halved.

One cup dates, halved and pitted.
One-half cup whole walnut meats.
One cup whipped cream.
Mix all ingredients together. Pour into refrigerator tray, and freeze for three hours. Serve cut in squares on salad green with or without salad dressing.

A New Flavor.

Two or three drops of pepperment extract added to iced chocolate made with three-fourths cup of plain iced chocolate.

A SPLENDID DELICACY FOR THE FRUIT SHELF

Baked Oranges May Be Served as a Garnish, a Salad, or as a Dessert.

Here is a new delicacy for your fruit shelf. Baking oranges is decidedly new and decidedly delicious. They may be served as a garnish for meats or, filled with cream or cottage cheese and set out on crisp lettuce they become an interesting salad. If it is dessert you are wanting, you top them with a marshmallow, sprinkle them with coconut, pop them into the oven for a bit and, presto, out comes a dessert.

Oranges prepared in this fashion require no great amount of work. Grate slightly the skins of six or eight whole oranges. Then boil them for 30 minutes and cool. This makes the skin tender. Cut a slice off the blossom end of each orange and remove the core. Fill the cavity with one teaspoon butter and one tablespoon sugar.

Baked Oranges.
Make a syrup of two parts water and one part sugar and cover the oranges. Cover closely and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for one and one-half to three hours, depending on the color desired. Long baking gives a darker fruit, more like a preserve and with a thick syrup. If the oranges are not completely covered with syrup, baste frequently. Seal in sterilized jars while hot.

For variation, the syrup may be colored red, may be flavored with maple. The oranges may be spiced with whole cloves before baking, if you like the sharp tang of spiced preserves.

The smaller oranges called Valencia are recommended for baking, since they are juicy and may be more easily packed into jars. Several lots may be baked at one time, depending on the size of the oven.

Baked Oranges.
Two cups orange pulp and juice.
One lemon, pulp and juice.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Boil together quickly for about 10 minutes, or until syrupy and clear. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin.

Jellies of all kinds profit greatly by the addition of orange juice. To ne quart of washed berries or other small fruits add one cup strained orange juice. Cover saucepan with lid and cook over low flame after the boiling begins, until the fruit is thoroughly softened. Pour off the juice and add the required amount of sugar for jelly or rub through a strainer for jam.

COOKING SHORT CUT ALWAYS WELCOME TO HOUSEWIFE IN THE SUMMER

Cooking short cuts are never more welcome to the busy housewife than they are in summer. With the aid of a macaroni product she is able to turn out a salad or main dish at practically a moment's notice. Salads are especially good during the hot weather since they look tempting and cool. Macaroni and macaroni products lend themselves well to either fruit or vegetable salads.

Fruit Salad.
One package (two cups) macaroni pieces
One cup shredded pineapple
One cup marshmallows
One-half cup mayonnaise
Two apples, peeled and diced
Two bananas, diced
One cup whipping cream
Pour the macaroni pieces into a saucepan containing three quarts of boiling water and three teaspoons salt. Boil for about 10 minutes, drain immediately and drop into cold water. When cool, drain and measure four cups and combine with the marshmallows, apples and bananas. Whip the cream and combine with the salad dressing. Mix all together and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Cold Vegetable Salad.
Two cups macaroni pieces
One cup cooked peas
One-half cup diced raw carrots
One-half cup diced celery
One-half cup chopped sweet pickle
French dressing
Cook the macaroni pieces according to directions on the package. Drain and set in the icebox to chill. When cool mix all the ingredients and marinate with French dressing. Serve in a salad bowl lined with lettuce and serve with mayonnaise dressing on the side.

BUTTER SCOTCH PARFAIT
One-third cup brown sugar.
One tablespoon butter.
One-fourth cup water.
Yolk of two eggs.
One cup heavy cream.
One-sixteenth teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Melt sugar and butter in saucepan, stirring to prevent burning and boil one minute. Add water and cook until butter seeth is smooth and of a syrup consistency. Beat yolks of eggs and butter scotch mixture slowly and continue beating. Cook in a double boiler until light and fluffy. Chill. Beat cream until of the consistency of boiled custard, add salt and vanilla. Fold into chilled egg mixture. Turn into tray of an automatic refrigerator and freeze without stirring.

CRAB GUMBO ADDS HAM TO GIVE TANG TO THE SEA FOODS

THE analytical cook may insist that this is not crab gumbo since so many other meats are used in addition to the sea food. The ham however, gives a tang to the otherwise flat tasting sea foods.

Crab Gumbo.
Chop together one large onion, a section of garlic and two or three branches of parsley. Put one tablespoon lard into a skillet and turn the chopped mixture in to brown. Season with a sprinkling of thyme and add a bay leaf. Stir and cook slowly until the onion is golden brown. Add one-half cup of diced ham, one-half pound crab meat and one-half pound cooked shrimp and two cups of okra sliced. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of tabasco and let brown. Then add one quart of water and simmer for three quarters of an hour.

LIME SHERBET

Two-thirds cup sugar.
Two cups water.
One-half cup lime juice; green color paste; whites of two eggs.
One-sixteenth teaspoon salt.
Boil sugar and water together slowly for 10 minutes. Add to the strained lime juice. Cool. Add enough green color paste to give a delicate shade of green. Pour into a tray of an automatic refrigerator and allow to freeze until quite firm. Remove to an ice-cold mixing bowl and beat with a rotary egg beater until mixture is very light. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs to which the salt has been added. Return to the freezing unit to finish the freezing.

Cotton—once a Cinderella becomes a Fashion Queen

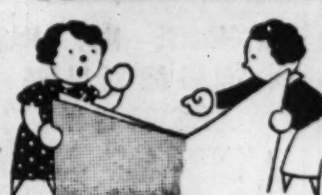

It's a far cry from the day when cotton lived in the kitchen to this Paris evening dress of fluttery organdie, with its chic little arm muff. Such cottons deserve the Lux care you give your silks, rayons and woollens.

A neat suit trick in cotton-tweed with a crisp cotton blouse, ruched high at the throat. To protect color and texture, Lux these new cotton fabrics. Cake-soap rubbing, or soaps with harmful alkali too often fade colors and injure the weave. Lux has no harmful alkali—anything safe in water is safe in Lux!

Smart new Cottons need LUX care

SUNDAY IS AD DAY

CHILDREN CAN HARDLY WAIT FOR THE SUNDAY NEWSPAPER

Nearly every normal boy or girl gets up bright and early Sunday and begins to tease for the Sunday newspaper. The Comic Sections are just as important to the children as eating breakfast in millions of American homes each Sunday. The children's interest in the Comic Sections is equalled and even exceeded by the interest of the grown-ups in other sections of the Big Sunday newspaper---General News, Editorial, Sports, Society, Financial, Rotogravure and Magazine Sections. Taken in its entirety the Sunday newspaper is an indispensable part of the home life of America. "SUNDAY IS AD DAY."

12.50 TOPS BEST C.V.S. AT NATIONAL YARDS

Bulk of Sales Made Between $11.35 and $12—
One Load of Fancy Stock
Brings $12.25.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, INC., 22
14—Receipts estimated: Cattle, 2000; calves, 1500; hogs, 5000; sheep, 3000;
horses and mules, 200.
A load of light hogs made $12.15 today for the highest price here since the early part of August, 1935. However, opening prices were weak to low in the a few days. Weakness also developed at the receipts, despite comparatively meager supplies.
Local receipts were estimated at 5000 head, of which 1500 head were on the and direct billing. The same number was estimated at Chicago, with the same number of receipts. At ten leading markets the average was around 25,000 head, against 28,754 a week ago, and 46,453 a year ago.
The opening price was very slow today, buyers being on the lookout for the sure of the outcome elsewhere. Too, receipts were too light to attract shipping orders and suggest a light future in this quarter.
The low early sales of 170 to 220-lb averages made $11.85 to $12.
Packer entered early, 1000 purchases of $11.75, range 100 to 150-lb.
Pigs and light hogs were 10 to 10-lb with 100 to 150, $9.50 to 10.75, 140 to 150, $11.15 to 12.00, $11.40 to 11.50.
Pigs showed little change early, at $10 to $10.60.
Practical top was $12.15, but a small bulk of extremely fancy hogs made $12.25.
The late hog market was same as early.
One load of very fancy hogs sold early at $12.25, but the practical top closed at $12.15. Clearance good. Bulk of day's sales $11.35 to $12.

Market Finds Rift in Profit Taking Rail, Mine, Utility, Merchandise and Specialty Issues Leaders.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The stock market found a rift in the profit-taking clouds today and recoveries were the rule in a rather active session.

Rail, mine, utility, merchandise and specialty issues led the resumption of the forward push. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 1,600,000 shares.

Freight car loadings for the week ended Aug. 10, were off considerably from the previous week.

Cotton rallied briskly, but gains were not steady. Sterling was reactionary in foreign exchange dealings.

Power and light company shares improved as advances from the Senate and House Conference Committee indicated failure of a compromise on the holding company bill.

The thought was advanced that the measure might be held over until the next session.

Shares of General Motors and Chrysler dropped around a point each in early transactions but came back later. Coughlin Silk Hosiery preferred jumped three points and others, up fractions to about 2.

Included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Northern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Western Union, Consolidated Gas, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Case, Deere, Goodyear, Kennecott, Cerrito, de Pisco, Ancon, Phelps Dodge, Fairbanks, Morse, Real Silk Hosiery, Industrial Rayon, Budd Mfg., Adams Express, Chicago Mail Order and Montgomery Ward. Many stocks were unchanged, but a number of new highs for the year were recorded.

Wheat was given a lift just before the finish, closing  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent higher. Corn was  $\frac{1}{4}$  cent higher and oats were unchanged to  $\frac{1}{4}$  cent lower. Cotton ended with advances of 25 cents to  $\frac{1}{2}$  cent.

THREE ON MIAMI CITY COMMISSION INDICTED

Ex-Mayor and Realty Broker Accused of Fraud With Present Mayor and Two Others.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 16. — The Mayor, two other members of the Miami City Commission, a former Mayor and a real estate broker were indicted yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the city in connection with the acquisition of a Negro park site.

It was the second indictment within two days naming Mayor A. D. H. Fossey. He was charged Wednesday with participating in a scheme to obtain city property under false pretense.

Others named in the indictment yesterday were Commissioner E. G. Sewell, a former Mayor; Commissioner Orville Rigby, C. H. Reeder, a former Mayor, and Victor J. Tatham, real estate broker and tax certificate buyer.

Tatham already was under indictment for perjury as a result of his testimony in the grand jury's investigation of the municipal tax sale certificate situation, which is alleged to have yielded huge profits for especially favored certificate buyers.

The indictment charges Sewell, then Mayor, and his fellow commissioners on April 20, 1934—Fossey, the present Mayor, Rigby and Reeder—confered to "cheat and defraud" the city of tax certificates valued at $97,600 by placing an "excessive and exorbitant" value on the property.

It is alleged they agreed that Tatham should offer the city the land, and that the commissioners "then and there well knowing" that the property was not then owned by Tatham, although he held tax certificates for it.

Tatham made this statement: "Reports of profits in this transaction are greatly exaggerated. At the time I purchased the certificates, many of them were worthless. It had not been for a recent court decision affecting tax certificates it is doubtful if I would have broken even."

$4000 IMPOUNDED AT DENVER FROM DEAD CHAIN LETTERS

Postmaster Will Hold Money One Year and Then Turn It Over to Treasury.

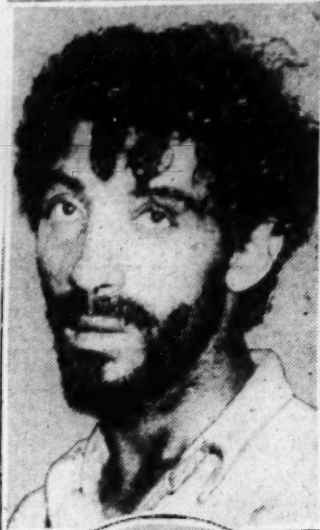

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 16.—Postmaster J. O. Stevie disclosed today approximately $4000 had been impounded here in dimes, quarters and half dollars from chain letters that wound up in the Dead Letter Department.

"At the height of the craze," said Stevie, "people would stick into the mail boxes letters containing perhaps dollar bills, and addressed to, say, John Jones, without a street address or stamp."

The money will be held a year, then turned over to the Treasury. Stevie said the Denver office alone handled more than 12,000,000 of the chain letters.

FALL'S THREE RIVERS RANCH SOLD, EVICTION THREATENED

Wife Hopes Doheny's Testimony in Oil Trial Will Save Part of Estate.

By the Associated Press. EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 16.—The wife of Albert B. Fall hoped today the testimony that sent the former Interior Secretary to prison would disclose evidence to prevent eviction from their ranch home near Three Rivers, N. M.

"I am confident the court record will show E. L. Doheny testified his foreclosure on the ranch did not affect the headquarters and 100 to 200 acres of farm land," Mrs. Fall said here. "If necessary, I will get a transcript of the testimony to prove it."

Mrs. Fall and her ailing husband apparently were waiting for R. M. Sands, manager of the Petroleum Securities Co., which yesterday sold the ranch property to the Tres Ritos Cattle Co., a New Mexico firm, to assume the initiative. Sands announced at Los Angeles formal legal proceedings would be taken unless Fall vacated the 750,000-acre ranch which long has been a showplace.

Mrs. Fall voiced belief that Sands and Mrs. Doheny, rather than the pioneer oil man, long a personal friend of Fall, were responsible for the planned eviction. "I believe Sands and Mrs. Doheny are managing Mr. Doheny's affairs," she said.

Fall was sent to prison for a year in 1931 for accepting $100,000 in connection with the leasing of the Elk Hills, Cal., naval reserve oil lands when he was a Cabinet member in the Harding administration. Doheny later was acquitted of charges of paying the bribe.

PLANS PREPARED FOR SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT IN KIRKWOOD

Federal Grant to Be Sought; Work in Southeast Section of City to Cost $80,000.

Plans are being prepared by City Engineer J. M. Wilson of Kirkwood for a disposal plant to take care of sewage from 800 acres in the southeast section of Kirkwood. The population of the area is 5000, about half the total.

The estimated cost is $80,000, and the city will apply for a Federal grant, the balance to be taken from the general revenue fund. No special assessment will be made against the property in the sewer district.

Location of the plant will be near Leffingwell avenue and the Frisco Railroad tracks. It reduces sewage to sludge, useful as fertilizer, and allows clear water to flow off. Another disposal plant recently was completed in the Sugar Creek district in the western part of Kirkwood. Since the collapse of the county-wide trunk sewer plan, Kirkwood is left with the problem of independent disposal plants, since it has drainage areas within its limits sloping in different directions.

Frank H. Hitchcock Funeral. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 16.—Private funeral services were held yesterday for Frank H. Hitchcock, publisher of the Tucson (Ariz.) Citizen and former Postmaster-General. The services, in Mount Auburn Cemetery chapel, were conducted by the Rev. Daniel Elias of the Old South Church, Boston.

SUFFOCATES BENEATH LOCOMOTIVE CRANE

Operator Jumps as Machine Topples But Is Caught Under Cab in Mud.

Thomas L. Tretter, 49 years old, of Nameoki, Ill., was killed yesterday when a locomotive crane, with which he was driving bridge piles in an excavation for the Cahokia Creek diversion canal at the northern edge of National City, was undermined and toppled over, burying him in mud beneath the cab.

He had just begun to back up at 4 p. m. under an order from his foreman, who had observed that the earth near the track was loosening due to vibrations from the pile-driver, when the dirt gave way and the track settled. He jumped from the cab, shouting, but it fell on him as he started to run. The fireman, Lee Merkel, standing at the edge of the 10-foot excavation, was knocked down, but was able to scramble to safety.

In a vain effort to release Tretter, eight fellow-workmen dug with shovels for 30 minutes. They dug to a point where they were able to see his body but were unable to reach it, so a wrecking crane of the Terminal Railroad was summoned.

After about an hour, one side of the fallen cab was lifted and Tretter's body taken out. At St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, physicians said his death was caused by suffocation.

He was employed by the G. Locke Tarlton Construction Co., contractor on the job, which is being carried on under a $2,360,000 PWA loan and grant to the East Side Levee and Sanitary District. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and a stepdaughter.

With the Magic Chef at such a low cost, it is false economy for you to deprive yourself any longer of the pleasure of leisure hours. Having a Magic Chef in your kitchen is comparable to having a servant who will work willingly and efficiently for you for many years without cost.

Did you know that with the aid of the famous Lorraine Oven heat control you can place a whole meal (roast, potatoes, vegetables, etc.) in the oven at one o'clock, set the control at 250°, light the oven and then forget about it all afternoon. When you return at six o'clock your dinner is ready. The beauty of it is that Magic Chef does all this at no more cost than is required to cook a meal the ordinary way.

Magic Chef Cooking Tastes Better

It is a known fact that food that is cooked at low temperature in the Magic Chef manner over a longer period of time is more delicious and retains its natural juices and goodness!

How to Get Poor.
A Request to Rabbis.
Lady Astor on Birth Control.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

HERE are ways of getting rich and ways of getting poor. John D. Rockefeller Jr. and his father know them both. Mr. Rockefeller senior, got rich because he was "smarter" than his competitors, and then gave away four or five hundred million dollars to science, education, etc.

John D. Jr. has just sold $77,000,000 worth of shares in various Standard Oil companies, and has given the proceeds to charitable and scientific organizations. An excellent example, but he might need the money some day. "Share-the-wealth" gentlemen might decide to change it to "take-all" and then make them give you an "I-O-U."

Dr. A. D. Albright of Knoxville, Tenn., offers to send you, prepaid, a fine turkey for your Thanksgiving dinner if you will cite him a message in the Bible that says "The Jews are God's (or the Lord's) chosen people."

Will some learned rabbi who sees this send to Mr. Albright the information desired.

Mr. Albright doubtless would send the "East Tennessee turkey" to anyone who might enlighten him. His address is room 208, Empire Building, Knoxville, Tenn.

Lady Astor of Virginia, who taught British women that they could go to Parliament and be useful, is criticised by American friends on the assumption that she is violently in favor of birth control.

Lady Astor, who has a right to express an opinion, having produced six infants before talking about birth control, says she favors reasonable supervision to protect "working class mothers who endure horrible suffering when they have children too frequently, or when they try to prevent them by operations."

That seems reasonable.

Democrats, "sounding out sentiment" on the proposition to change the national Constitution, are preparing excellent cartoon material for the next Republican campaign. One cartoon will show Democrats sailing the raging main, with Mr. Farley at the helm, and some other Democrat throwing overboard the ship's compass labeled "Constitution."

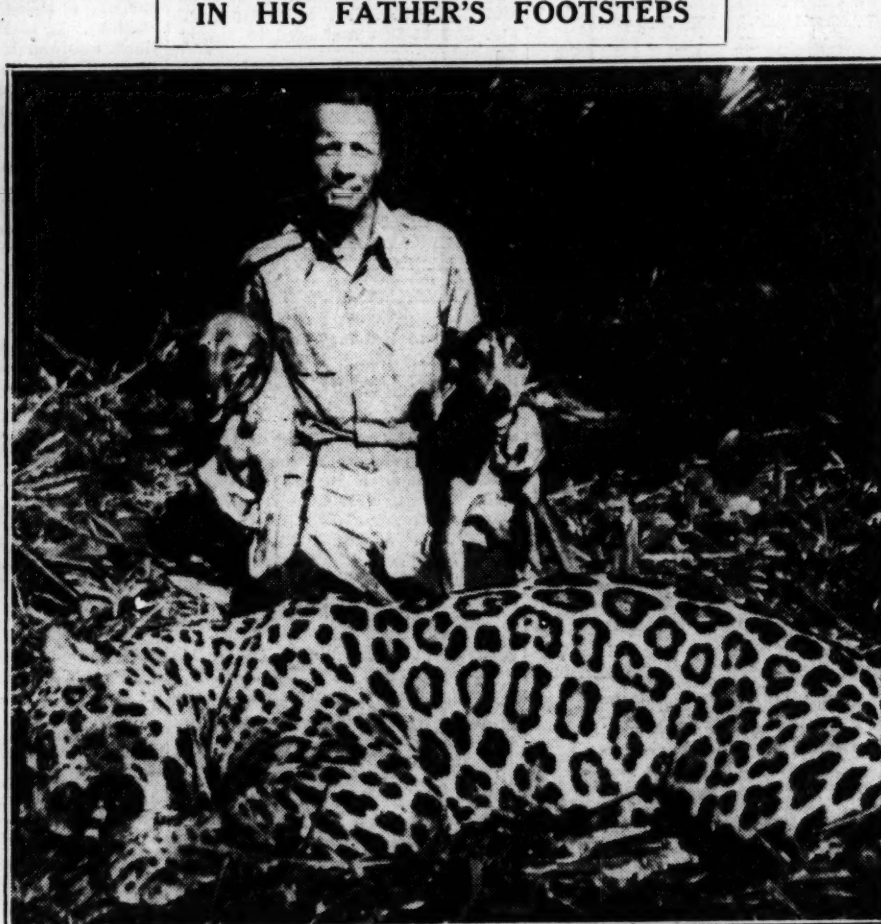

Another cartoon will reproduce, with variations, the Punch cartoon, "Dropping the Pilot," which showed the young German Kaiser getting rid of the experienced, old Bismarck.

Democrats will be surprised to find how much sentiment has grown up around that Constitution.

Testimony that her husband, Nathan Myles, advertising man, threatened to drive over a cliff with her, won Gwynne Farrell, film actress, a divorce in Los Angeles.

GOLDEN GODDESS
Everything Seems to Favor Derger, Until Manuela and Cavanagh Take Hand in Things.

CHAPTER FORTY.
THE night was very quiet. Only the rustling of the dry branches to bruise the silence, the noise of the men at intervals shifting their positions, the breathing of the men. Once there was a tinkle in the stillness, a splash. Something falling in the pond. A small stone.

Footsteps again, far away, but getting nearer. Troy recognized the firm tread, Derger. The muscles in his arms tightened, but he did not move his body. Behind his back, his hands clenched within their bonds.

The footsteps came closer, and Derger's tall frame emerged from the dark. When he sat down beside his men, the light of the lantern made his silvery hair reddish gold. There was a gun in his right hand, but he laid it down on the ground beside him, while he filled his pipe.

"Derger," Rian started, but Derger interrupted him sharply. "You are to be silent, Troy. I want to hear nothing from you and nothing from Miss Farnol. This is final. If you persist in talking, I shall be obliged to have my men shoot you—and in that case Miss Farnol would be left alone. I don't think you would want that."

Rian's lips closed firmly, but his arms did not lose their tenseness, neither did his shoulders. In the darkness there was another light, reddish this time, and very small—the glow from the bowl of Derger's pipe. The men, if anything, were more alert, and the three revolvers remained aimed—all of them—at Troy.

Derger spoke after a while, the stem of his pipe between his teeth, his voice slightly sarcastic. "At the present time, we are waiting for a job Walter is doing above on the plateau. When it will be finished I don't know. It will be in several hours. When it is done, you are going to take me into the temple so that I can look around, too—When I have finished looking around—He took the pipe from his lips and held the bowl in the palm of his left hand.

TODAY'S PATTERN

Simplicity
THIS dress for "Higher Mathematics" will mean lower mathematics in dollars, if sense is used in selecting an attractive yet inexpensive cotton for its making. The simplicity with which the side panels gather onto the yoke and center panel, can be handled by the very beginner, and sleeves may be either long or of the short, puffed variety. A cute Peter Pan collar is excuse enough for a bright grosgrain bow, and two pretty wooden or bakelite buttons might trim the cross-cross belt. A dress as suited to lower grades as to high-school and college years.

Pattern 2377 is available in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 14 takes 3 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

light, so soft. Another hardly audible noise on the other side of the lantern by the men and Derger. No louder than the other. But Rian was sure no one was noticing it, but himself. It was followed by a sigh from Lillis which they all heard. A deep quivering sigh. Derger looked in her direction, but the men's eyes remained on Troy.

"Sorry to inconvenience you, Miss Farnol," came Derger's cool sarcastic voice, which sent a thrill of exaltation through Troy's veins, "but the inconvenience won't last much longer, I assure you."

Back of Derger's voice, Troy heard the crackling of leaves, louder this time, and he shifted his gaze quickly to Derger, and then beyond Derger into the darkness where the light didn't penetrate. For a moment he thought he saw something moving, some black thing creeping on the ground, close to Derger, behind Derger.

"So you'll simply have to make up your mind," Derger went on, "to stand the inconvenience. Surely you."

The last word was left hanging in the air, for the sentence was never completed. Troy was the only one who saw Derger's head fall on his chest, and the look of surprise in his face change to blankness. Saw his shoulders sag forward, and his lower jaw dropping over into the lantern, blotting out the light.

"Senhor! You all right?" Manuela's voice came to him very close in the darkness. "All right," he called, making for the hammock and picking Lillis up in his arms. "Then we go—fast. Take Senorina!"

"I have her—" In the blackness he could see nothing, but he could hear Manuela ahead of him, giving him soft directions. "Here now, Senhor. We turn. Careful of the tree. There now, Senhor."

"The other guard, Manuela!" he pointed. "There is one by the temple door!" "No more, Senhor. Him, Manuela get first. Put knife in back, then draw out again. She need it for the hammock—she plan carefully, you see." She was breathless, too. Suddenly she paused, and touched Troy's arm.

"Stop now, Senhor. Senhor Cavanagh here. He watch trail for us—Manuela not let him come where you are because he not know quiet of jungle. He give us away—he watch here for Senhor Julian's men who might come down. He—"

Cavanagh's voice came to them, and Rian laid Lillis gently down on the ground. "You're all safe?" the Englishman asked feverishly. "Safe, Senhor," Manuela answered. "Senhor Derger, he dead. Manuela bury knife deep in him."

HE had barely asked himself the question when two shots burst together through the jungle. A third followed, aimed at himself, but he escaped it. He had quickly rolled to one side. Then his own gun went off, and Gu doubled up before him, toppling over into the lantern, blotting out the light.

What was Manuela intending to do?

The Tendency To Pigeon-hole Other People
By The Rev. J. F. Newton

HOW quickly, how glibly we classify people, both as individuals and in the mass. We stick a label on a man, or a group, like a ticket on some specimen in a museum, and have done with it.

The Northern Farmer in the Ten-ton poem said: "the poor in the lump is bad." Others are ready and eager to say that the rich, as a class, are a greedy, selfish, callous, low-down outfit.

All of us speak of "people like that," or more stinging, "that sort of person," or in the latest jargon, "that type of man or woman." Yet there is nothing we ourselves resent more than being "classified."

Once I tried to describe one very dear to me to a psychologist, and he said, "Yes, I know that type." In my heart I thought, "No, you don't." For the person described was not a mere type of any sort.

There is no "type" of person, and nine-tenths of the talk about the "type" of person, and the rest of pigeon-holed population, is really silly, like the old-time talk about the "economic man."

If we love a human being very much, the first thing we know about him is that he is utterly different from anybody else. And so are all, each soul being unique, peculiar, and worth knowing.

To classify folk is too simple. There is little truth in classifications and much that is false. Jesus never treated any two people alike, because he knew the sanctity and supreme worth of each one of us. (Copyright, 1935.)

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE
by WYNN

For Saturday, Aug. 17.
TIE up loose ends, if any, with those of the opposite sex. O. K. to combine the intellect and feelings, if you can get 'em both pulling in the same direction with intellect leading. Attend to domestic affairs; see others' side.

Many Combinations.
Many people imagine that astrology is merely based on the 12 zodiacal sign positions of the sun. I have seen amazement written on the faces of some when they are informed that Sun and Moon sign positions alone account for 144 faith-hope general types. You can have the moon in any one of the 12 signs for each of the sun signs. Yet there are much smaller divisions than the signs.

Your Year Ahead.
Your year ahead brings opportunity to build up estate and improve home till February. From 3d of that month general improvement, and getting romantic. Care in law, and with health. Danger: Aug. 31-Oct. 11; Dec. 25-Feb. 9; April 28 to June 12.

Tomorrow.
Look ahead in life and along the road you are traveling; avoid high speeds. (Copyright, 1935.)

She leave it there. Manuela have to move careful—so careful. She find Senhor Derger gun beside him. She have other gun of Senhor Cavanagh.

"She aim at two men, and hope, pray Senhor Troy get Gu. He do. They die—all. We go now—Senhor Julian hear bullets." He come, but take some time get down from Tiva. Be not angry with Manuela. Senhor Cavanagh—she do what she think best. She not let you with her to spoil jungle sounds—"

"I'm not angry, Manuela—" "Manuela, she know jungle. Happy you trust her—" She moved off ahead, and Rian picked up Lillis again. After about a half mile of traveling through the brush

Troy wasn't sure. Julian was involved in the slaughter of the Itacas as deeply as Derger had been. It would be to Julian's advantage to follow them. Manuela agreed with him.

It was nearly 11 when they started. Manuela ahead, Troy with Lillis in his arms next, and Cavanagh bringing up the rear.

The Magician Is Willing to Visit Puddle Muddle
By Mary Graham Bonner

THE cat had disappeared as quickly as he had appeared. The magician laughed at the surprise of the duck and crow and Willy Nilly.

"I suppose you couldn't do me another favor?" asked Willy Nilly. "I haven't done you any favor at all," replied the magician. "I'm afraid you'll have to have some treatment that is other than a trick for your ears."

"Yes," agreed Willy Nilly. "I'll start in using the adhesive tape again. But I wondered if you wouldn't come over with me to Puddle Muddle and give a show like a dress rehearsal, for my animal friends."

"We've had many important visitors in Puddle Muddle, and I could drive you over there in my automobile Two-Ways."

"That would be splendid," the magician replied. "I'd like to go over all my tricks once before I leave, and there is nothing like an audience. I'll come at once."

So they all got into the automobile Two-Ways and back they started for Puddle Muddle.

Manuela stopped once more. "We eat, then we start."

During the meal, they made their plans. As quickly as they could, they would get back to the mine. Rian would repair the plane and they would be off.

They would have a good head start on Julian if he chose to follow them. Cavanagh thought he wouldn't. Julian would go first into the temple, he said. Julian couldn't resist the temple and the treasure.

Troy wasn't sure. Julian was involved in the slaughter of the Itacas as deeply as Derger had been. It would be to Julian's advantage to follow them. Manuela agreed with him.

It was nearly 11 when they started. Manuela ahead, Troy with Lillis in his arms next, and Cavanagh bringing up the rear.

Family raved about 23¢ dinner!

THIS IS ONE WAY I'VE FOUND TO CUT MY FOOD BILL WITH AN Extra Bottle of Milk!

Try This Delicious SCALLOPED CABBAGE Dinner It Costs Only About 6c a Person

FOUR of us made a big, hearty dinner on this dish. And when I counted up the cost it was just 23c. Yet I had been spending two and three times that much on our dinners! I decided right then that if milk could make one inexpensive vegetable so rich and delicious it would make all other foods go farther! Now I'm filling my recipe file with dishes that you make with extra fresh milk. And the dollars I've saved have certainly proved that an extra bottle of milk means my most important food saving!

Scalloped Cabbage

Shred a medium size head of cabbage, wash and press thoroughly. Make a thin cream sauce with 1 tablespoonful of flour, 1 table-spoonful of butter, 3 cups of fresh milk and add 1/2 cup of grated or dried sharp cheddar and 1 table-spoonful of A1 sauce or 1/2 tablespoonful of ketchup. Mix well with cabbage and put in baking dish topped with buttered crumbs mixed with 1/2 cup of cheese and bake in moderate oven 35 minutes. Try this different, delicious recipe—how much you save!

FREE BOOKLET SHOWS HOW TO REDUCE FOOD COSTS BY DOLLARS

Get the "Dollar Saving Magic of a Bottle of Milk." You'll be surprised to find so many ways to cut really big sums off your food bill and have extra fresh milk to drink, too—all the time! You'll be delighted with your savings!

Tear out and put in empty milk bottle tonight!

Fondness for Old Songs
The Daily Short Story

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

Partly, of course, but it is largely because when men of middle age and beyond get together for a good time and "let go" one of the most fundamental phases of human psychology manifests itself—the wish to return to childhood. While we look back upon our present troubles and problems, those days seem all golden—no responsibility all our problems solved for us, all our wants cared for, and life all play. "O, to be a boy again," Mother, just for tonight, let's keep up in adult psychology and we get something of our childhood feeling from the old songs.

Of course the more you know of the life of the mind, the better, but mental health and self-confidence consist solely in the feeling you know how to solve your daily problems. Many ordinary people devise simple rules for doing this as good as any psychologist can furnish. I have, myself, prepared a little booklet, entitled, "How to Solve Your Personal Problems," containing rules that have helped me in a good many tight places. For a stamped, self-addressed envelope and a three-cent stamp to cover actual cost I shall gladly send you a copy. It might give you a lift.

Far better to practice against a woman. Helen Jacobs brings this out strongly in an article in Liberty on tennis. She maintains that no woman champion can possibly beat a man champion. In fact when Bill Tilden and Suzanne Lenglen played against one another Tilden gave Suzanne a big handicap but she never got a "look in."

Devil's Due

By Mary Faith Geary

PAULINE could see that Harriet was growing weaker. In the dim light that came from the candle, set upright in the middle of the trampled dirt floor, Frank sat, motionless except for the slow, monotonous movement of his right hand stroking Harriet's curls that flowed in a golden cataract over his lap. She was stretched full length on the floor of the cellar, her head tenderly held in Frank's arms.

Forty-eight hours ago they had fled here before the approach of a tornado. Huddled together, awed by the roar of wind above, they had heard a rending, splintering crash as the shed that protected the cellar door collapsed. Then, when the multitudinous howling of the wind had died to a shrill whisper, they had all three exerted their strength to budge the door, which was set in the ground above their heads, at the crest of the mound of earth that formed the ceiling of the cellar. It would not move.

For forty-eight hours Pauline had watched with a sullen show of concern while Harriet grew steadily weaker. Seizing Frank's hand, she had ceaselessly stroking her hair, Pauline's teeth bared in a sneer. Each stroke of that hand seemed to twist the knife that Frank had buried in her heart days before, when he had come to her with the news of his engagement to Harriet.

From the moment Harriet had arrived in this little town to rest from a wasting illness Pauline had watched the progress of the courtship. Frank's first glance at Harriet should have warned her, but Pauline had ignored the warning. That she could lose Frank's love had seemed ridiculous at first; that she had lost it was almost incomprehensible. But here, in the reeking glow of the homemade tallow candle, she, Pauline, would win again. Harriet was failing; it was merely a matter of time.

"She needs food," Frank murmured hoarsely. "She isn't strong enough to starve for so long." Pauline leaned back against the dirt wall, eyes fixed steadily on Frank's face. "There is no food," she whispered. "It was an effort to keep the light of victory out of her voice. Of course there was food, but Pauline alone knew where it was."

This cellar had been used by her mother to store canned fruits and vegetables. One of Pauline's first actions after the collapse of the shed had been to investigate—while Frank was engrossed in tending Harriet. And she had found it, a familiar cardboard carton of fruit jars.

A hasty glance had disclosed that two of the jars were full; through their dusty glass sides gleamed inviting yellow kernels of canned corn.

About to shout the news of her discovery, something had silenced Pauline. A plan had sprung full-blown into her mind. Frank was strong; so was she. But Harriet was weak. Obviously she could not endure for long the torture of starvation.

And now Frank was still unharmed by his fast; Harriet was dying from pain and hunger. The hunger had seized Pauline finally, and she had waited till Frank was weak, then quickly scooped out a handful of the precious kernels. One eye on Frank, she had screwed the cap back on the jar and wolfed down the handful of corn. It hadn't tasted good; vaguely she wondered at the sour taste. But it was food. There was a sudden sound from above. Pauline looked at Frank. He had heard it too, was staring up at the door overhead. "Nothing," he said finally, "except the boards shifting up above."

FRANK bent his head over Harriet's white face, and the light of victory shone again in Pauline's eyes. Nothing! No one had missed them yet; they would be here for hours longer.

But Pauline caught her breath and held it at Frank's next words. "This is a fruit cellar, isn't it?" She nodded dumbly.

Silently he motioned to her. "Hold Harriet's head. I'm going to look. Maybe you missed something." There was nothing else to do. She sat down on the floor, took Harriet's head in her arms. Frank stood up and looked down at her. Then he turned to the far wall. Pauline watched apprehensively. Certainly Frank would find the carton. She saw him bend over with a startled grunt, come up again with a dusty jar. He brought it to the candle.

"Canned corn!" he gasped. He sat down heavily at Pauline's side. Long minutes of silence dragged by. Then he turned to her, staring whitely.

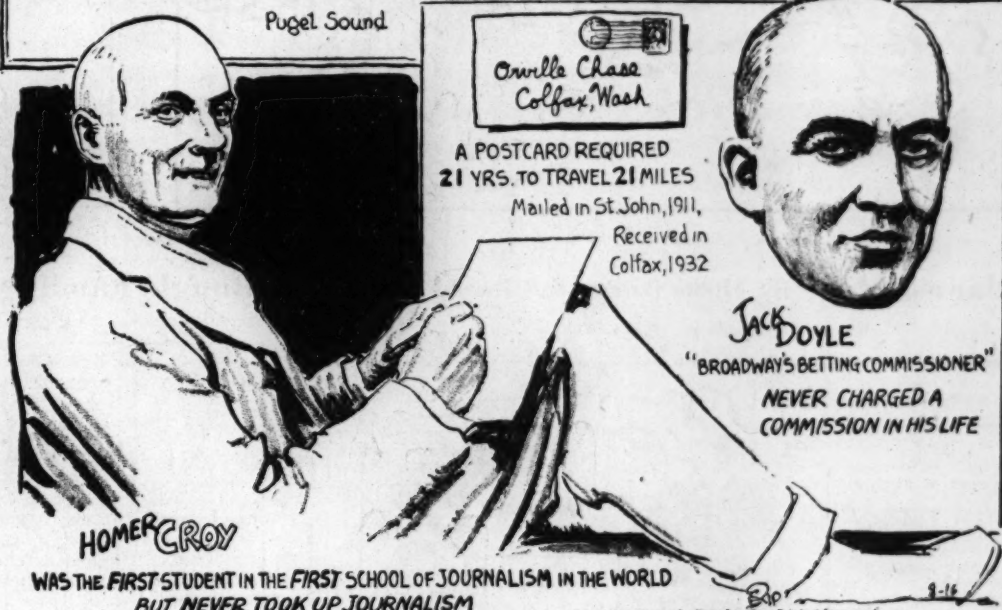

"You must have known"—his voice was furious. Pauline's thoughts raced. Frank must not suspect the truth. "I did know it was there," she found breathlessly. "I tasted some, found it was spoiled. I knew you'd be tempted to eat it—it would kill Harriet. It couldn't—it would kill her."

She returned Frank's maddened gaze steadily. But deep inside there was a crawling fear—that taste. Quickly Frank wrench open the jar, tasted the corn. His eyes were crafty as he looked at Pauline.

"It is spoiled," he muttered hoarsely. "It would mean poisoning." From above there came a persistent sound. This time Frank rushed to the door, listened.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

PATIN—Guy Patin, famous French physician and writer, (1602-1672) was for many years Professor of Medicine at the College of France. He was a bitter enemy of modern medicine, and a disbeliever in quinine, antimony and the circulation of blood. Through incutating this disbelief into a generation of medical students, he surely retarded the progress of the medical profession by at least a century. But Patin was also a man of prodigious memory. He imported and destroyed a library of 10,000 volumes, each of which was prohibited by the French Government. Let he be caught violating the King's prohibition, he memorized the contents of each volume before he committed it to the flames. The contents of the forbidden books were repeated by him at gatherings and private assemblies, in which his participation was eagerly sought.

TOMORROW: "A PRIVATELY OWNED JAIL."

"They're coming," he exulted. He turned back to Pauline. She had risen, Harriet forgotten. Her hand was clawing at her mouth, her eyes were ghastly. She fell full length; her foaming mouth was ugly to
